British Embassy Refuses to Accept Military Version of Bombing of Gunboat Ladybird

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The British government rejects the Japanese army's version of the attack on the British gunboat Ladybird. This version is considered here unacceptable as it is not in accordance with the British government's own report of the incident.

The foreign office today received a 1,500-word note of apologies from the Japanese government. The note is now being distributed to members of the cabinet for consideration. Its text will be made public tonight or tomorrow.

The Japanese army version which was not officially communicated to the British government, asserted that H. M. S. Ladybird, with other British vessels on the Yangtze, was fired upon by the Japanese because they appeared to be hiding behind black smoke and landing men in launches.

TOKYO, Dec. 29.—The Japanese army's disavowal of responsibility for the unfortunate incident was the only clue today regarding the nature of the reply Foreign Minister Koki Hirota made yesterday to the British government's protest against the shelling of the gunboat Ladybird.

Mist shrouding the Yangtze river on Dec. 12 when the attack occurred, together with a "smoke screen" said to have been pouring from the warship, was blamed for the attack.

The army statement, describing efforts to cut off the last avenue of Chinese retreat from the area of Nanking, capital of China, insisted there had been no reason to believe any foreign warships were in the area.

The text of the note handed to British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie was not published. It was earlier approved by the cabinet and submitted to the throne.

The army inquiry also found a single shot had been fired at the British gunboat Bee—likewise by mistake—an hour after the Ladybird was shelled.

GIBB TO STAY COMMISSIONER FOR 6 MONTHS

Charles Smail, Audit Clerk, Named Assistant City Treasurer

Status of two civic officials was fixed at Tuesday night's city council meeting when aldermen passed motions that Commissioner Robert J. Gibb continue in his present position as commissioner until June 1938, and that Charles Smail, chief audit clerk, be appointed assistant city treasurer as from January 1, 1938.

Decision to continue Commissioner Gibb in his present capacity follows a suggestion made by Mr. Gibb himself that he be transferred back to his former position as superintendent of the waterworks department unless council saw fit to equalize salaries paid on the commission board.

SALARY SET

Acting on this proposal, council Tuesday fixed $4,500 a year as Commissioner Gibb's new salary, and also approved the provision that in the event of Mr. Gibb desiring to return to his former post in the waterworks department between now and June 1938 that he be permitted to do so.

In moving this motion, Ald. Hugh J. Macdonald stated that in view of development work now proceeding on the power plant, street railway and airport, the services of a technician such as Commissioner Gibb should be retained.

FILLS VACANCY

Appointment of Mr. Smail as assistant treasurer at a salary of $2,400 a year follows the appointment of A. A. Campbell, at present acting in this capacity, as city comptroller. Mr. Campbell will take over his new duties January 1, replacing Commissioner John Hodgson, former comptroller, who was named a commissioner two months ago.

TRIO DROWN AS PLANE PLUNGES

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 29.— Three persons were drowned today when a plane plunged into Lake Erie a half mile off Put-in-Bay, an island three miles from the mainland.

The dead: Henry Howard, 42; Delbert Watkins, 30, and Albert Anderson, 45, all of North Bass Island.

William Somogy, 30, pilot, was rescued.

The plane fell into open water as the pilot, blinded by a heavy fog, tried to land on the ice.

New Type Gun Will Be Given British Forces

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Rifles of a new type, weighing three times as much as those now used and of double their caliber, will soon be distributed to the British army, the Daily Herald said today.

Explosive bullets fired from this rifle are capable of piercing the armor of tanks and killing the occupants, the article said.

Military experts are now studying plans of a light artillery piece capable of destroying tanks, the newspaper said.

City Father Favors Sand As Anti-Slip

In order to redeem Edmonton from a fast gaining impression that it is the dirtiest city in all Canada due to the use of black cinders on snow-coated streets, City Commissioners have been asked to report as to sand available for a substitute.

At a recent meeting of council, Ald. Blair Paterson requested a report on the cost of sprinkling sidewalks with sand and salt instead of cinders. City Engineer A. W. Haddow explained that while a mixture of sand and salt was used in the downtown section when sidewalks were slippery, the use of this mixture were extended to all city sidewalks the added cost would be about $5,000 a year.

Ald. Paterson questioned this cost, believing the city could obtain a supply of sand from city-owned property which would reduce the estimated expenditure given.

According to his computation, about 3,000 yards of cinders were used on Edmonton streets during the course of the year "and this adds to the dust nuisance in the city."

STATE OWNERSHIP BRITAIN RAILWAYS GAINING GROUND

LONDON, Dec. 29—Nationalization of Great Britain's railways, a policy that has long been advocated by the Labor party, today found a supporter in William Whiteaw, chairman of the London and North-Eastern railway, second largest railway in the United Kingdom.

Declaring eventual state ownership is inevitable, Mr. Whiteaw maintained there must be a much more urgent need than the present for a general consideration of the whole transportation problem.

He urged it be tackled as a great national responsibility, not in piecemeal fashion.

"I believe if fair terms were offered," he said, "there would be no opposition to purchase by the state from the railway stockholders."

Girl Killed On 'Mercy' Errand For Teddy Bear

It had soft spots all over, and left a trail of sawdust, so she filled the depressed places with paper and covered up some of the small openings.

But what Teddy really needed was a bit of red ribbon to make him well for New Year's.

Janice took a nickel from her savings yesterday and ran to a nearby store. When three hours passed and she had not returned, her father went to police headquarters.

There he learned that Janice had run from behind a street car into the path of a truck. She was killed instantly.

SOLLOWAY GIVES LIE TO CHARGE

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—I. W. C. Solloway appearing in his own defence on charges of theft, fraud and breach of trust, today termed the evidence of crown witnesses in his special general sessions trial "a pack of lies."

On several occasions, the former stock broker interrupted his testimony with epithets which brought torth admonitions from his counsel and Judge Daniel O'Connell.

Capt. Palmateer, Veteran Skipper, Dies In Picton

PICTON, Ont., Dec. 29.—Captain Nelson Palmateer, veteran Great Lakes sailing skipper and founder of the annual Cherry Valley church service for mariners, died in hospital here last night. He was 83 years of age.

From the time he began sailing as a 15-year-old boy until his retirement in 1929, Captain Palmateer served on 38 vessels. At the time of his retirement he was employed with the Toronto Ferry company.

City Calls Upon Government To Lower Interest

City Moves For Negotiations With Alberta Government To Obtain Equalization Of Payments On Bond Rates.

Flinging down the gauntlet to the provincial government, Ald. Hugh J. Macdonald declared at Tuesday's meeting of city council that the government should pay the contracted rate of interest on Alberta bonds held by the city in view of the fact the city was still paying the contracted rate on its own bonds held by the province.

"If there is no equalization on interest payments made by the province and city, I'm prepared to say that we (the city) will not pay you (the province) any more than you are paying us—and let them sue us for the difference if they want to," said Ald. Macdonald.

In this connection Ald. Macdonald moved that commissioners be instructed to negotiate with provincial government authorities with a view to obtaining an equalization of interest as paid by the city to the provinces, and by the province to the city. His motion carried.

This statement was made in connection with the province's action

ROOMERS FLEE FROM FIRE IN NIGHT ATTIRE

Blaze Does $4,000 Damage To Dandy Rooms—One Woman Hurt

Fire of undetermined origin, which broke out in the Dandy Rooms, 10255 96 street, at 1:45 a.m. Wednesday, drove more than a score of persons out into the subzero weather, brought firemen from four fire halls, and caused damage estimated unofficially at $4,000 before being brought under control.

Believed to have started in the kitchen of the Dandy cafe, which occupies one half of the first floor of the two-storey frame building rented by Frank W. Hayduk from the city, the blaze raced through the building and spread to the Manitoba rooms, 10251 96 street, adjoining.

WOMAN IS INJURED

Mrs. J. Margoch, wife of the proprietor of the Manitoba rooms, stumbled as she fled from the burning building, fell down a flight of stairs and injured an arm. She was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital in a Smith's ambulance.

Seventeen persons fled in night attire, some of them with their clothes in their hands.

Hayduk told police that he and his family were awakened by shouts of "fire." The Hayduk family, including four children, a Mr. and Mrs. Markarowski and three children and four single men and two women were all driven from

NEW YEAR LIST RUMORS LINK TWEEDSMUIR

LONDON, Dec. 29—Rumors about the New Year honors list abound, but the list will not be published until Saturday and such reports cannot be verified.

Several political correspondents of London newspapers, however, intimate the order of merit will be awarded to a distinguished public servant with both political and authentic qualification for distinction. Earl Baldwin, Winston Churchill and Lord Tweedsmuir are three names suggested.

David Lloyd George is the only famous politician now belonging to the order, the membership of which is limited to 24.

ELK, MOOSE TO BE FREED AT COOKING LAKE

Animals Will Be Taken From Elk Island Park, Game Chief Says

Arrangements have been completed between the Dominion and provincial governments for the liberation of 100 elk and 100 moose from the Elk Island National park into the area known as the Cooking Lake Forest Reserve, according to an announcement made on Wednesday by W. H. Wallace, provincial fish and game commissioner.

The liberation will commence immediately after the New Year.

Mr. Wallace also announced that the government proposed to appoint a park ranger, who will look after the animals and the park in general. He will establish residence in the park.

Dr. A. J. Love, superintendent of the Elk Island Park called on Mr. Wallace on Tuesday and completed arrangements.

It is proposed that when a small herd of the animals approaches the southern fence of Elk Island Park, they will be driven into the area in which they will be liberated.

Asked if he was ready to announce the name of the park ranger, Mr. Wallace said the appointment had not yet been made and that there were several names under consideration.

Flying Alderman Sniffs Arctic Air: Will Run Again

While Al Cheesman, Port Arthur's flying alderman, freezes his nose within the Arctic circle on the search party seeking six missing Russian aviators, his friends at home have filed his nomination for re-election to the city council.

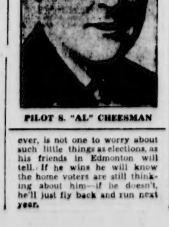

Cheesman is reserve pilot with Sir Hubert Wilkins' expedition searching for six missing Russian aviators.

"If I don't get back from the Arctic in time for the elections, the boys at home are going to run me by proxy," Cheesman told friends in Edmonton before he took off for the north.

"I am going to run for mayor," said the flying alderman, but especially the civic colleagues in the lakehead city felt the possible cognomen of "the flying alderman" to be too suggestive of a wrestling hold.

Voting in Port Arthur takes place next Monday, so Al and his friends likely will be listening attentively to the radio on that night—that is if they are not away off in the ice-bound Arctic laying down gasoline caches for coming moonlight search flights.

The jovial Cheesman, however, is not one to worry about such little things as elections, as his friends in Edmonton will tell. If he wins he will know the home voters are still thinking about him—if he doesn't, he'll just fly back and run next year.

OUTSIDERS TO GET SMALLER RELIEF HELP

City Council Reaffirms Resolution to Discourage Jobless Influx

In an attempt to stem the flow of unemployed from outside municipalities to Edmonton where they apply for relief, city council Tuesday night reaffirmed a resolution passed by council in July last which states that persons who have become residents since January 1, 1935, and who go on city relief shall be granted only the provincial scale of relief, which is lower than that paid by Edmonton.

At Tuesday's meeting aldermen amended this resolution to fix the scale of relief paid by municipalities from which they come as the amount these persons will be given in Edmonton. Object of this move is to prevent indigents leaving their homes in outside points and coming to Edmonton with the expectation of receiving a higher rate of unemployment relief.

BASED ON REPORT

The amendment passed by council Tuesday night was based on the following report recently issued by council's unemployment relief committee.

"Attention was drawn to the resolution of council July 2, 1937, regarding persons from outside municipalities, and in order to stem the influx of persons coming to the city from outside municipalities and establishing residence qualifications and then applying for relief, we recommend that the resolution of

ROBBERS ELUDE POLICE IN MAD MOTOR RACE

TORONTO, Dec. 29—Robbers in a big car eluded city police in a North Toronto chase early today when the two automobiles hit a pace of 82 miles an hour. Several shots were fired by a policeman.

Fifty police are scouting in three counties for the robbers in the stolen car, the back punctured by police bullets. They fled when the occupants of a passing car interrupted a gasoline station holdup. Two of the men rushed to the car. Constable Donald Barr fired several times at the car as it pulled away.

Later a police scout car sighted the auto believed to contain the fugitives and the chase started.

GEO. GOODALL, OLDEST CIVIC EMPLOYEE, DIES

Had Been a Servant of the City Of Edmonton Since 1892

With the death of George Goodall, 11337 98 street, shortly before noon Wednesday, Edmonton loses its oldest civic employee. He died in hospital following a heart attack at the age of 75, and had been with the city since 1892—45 years of uninterrupted service.

Born in London, England, on February 10, 1862, Mr. Goodall came to Edmonton as a young man in 1881. During the Riel Rebellion of 1885 he joined the famed North West Mounted Police, and served with the force until he entered the civic service in April, 1892.

In that year Edmonton was a thriving town building for the flourishing city to come. And at that time George Goodall was given charge of what was later the public works department and which is now the city engineering department. He was with this branch of the service until he died. His duties covered a wide field, but his biggest task was the build-

DUCE AROUSED OVER REPORTS ITALY TROUBLED

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 29.—Premier Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia, aroused over foreign publication of reports of internal disorders in Italy, charged those responsible for the stories were trying to start war.

"Certain rabbles are troubling the Italian people and the Italian peoples, and their poison demonstrates that their object is not peace but disorder and war," the article said.

Il Duce's paper specifically denounced the London News Chronicle for allegedly publishing reports of anti-Fascist disorders and protest marches in Lombardy and said the reports were false.

Thirty-Six Men, Dynamiters, Are Sent To Prison

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 29.—Thirty-six men, convicted in a dynamiting conspiracy arising out of Illinois mine warfare, today began serving four-year prison terms.

They were sentenced to the maximum allowed by law by Judge Charles Briggle yesterday. They were also fined $20,000 each.

The defendants were found guilty by a former jury on Dec. 18 at the completion of 33-day trial, in which 388 witnesses testified as to five years of interunion skirmishings and terrorism throughout the Illinois coal fields.

British Clipper Makes Landing In New Zealand

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 29.—The British flying boat Centaurus, of Imperial Airways, landed here Tuesday after flying 1,300 miles across the Tasman sea from Sydney, Australia, in eight hours. Local officials gave the airmen an enthusiastic welcome.

Pan-American Airways has been conducting pioneer flights from Hawaii to Auckland in preparation for establishing service between the United States and New Zealand by way of Honolulu.

QUEBEC TO GIVE LABOR INCREASES

Action Affects 80 Per Cent. Of Province's 670,000 Workers, Including 155,000 Women, In Industry Or Business.

MONTREAL, Dec. 29. — The Province of Quebec Fair Wage Board issued an order last night providing for wage increases for workers whose pay now is below minimum standards in specific categories, and a five to 10 per cent in minimums now legally fixed. The board action will affect nearly 80 per cent of the province's 670,000 workers, including 155,000 women.

The announcement said the new order covers every worker in the province in any industrial or commercial establishment; office workers, clerks, clinical assistants, nurses, workers classified as "domestic" in commercial establishments, such as cooks, waiters, chambermaids, elevator operators, male and female teachers, employees of theatres or places of entertainment. It includes also "any day laborer working at any work whatsoever, manual or otherwise, and for whom no provision has been made in the present ordinance."

EXTENDED TO MEN

Wage minimums previously set under the defunct Women's Minimum Wage Board are extended to male workers, sole exceptions being domestic servants privately employed, agricultural workers, colonists and workers already covered by collective labor agreements under the Act Respecting Workmen's Wages.

Time and a half must be given employees who work less than 30 hours a week. The "minimum hour" regulation is designed to prevent abuses whereby employees might be employed "on speculation" and retained only for brief periods. It is also provided that an employee called to work, and working less than a regular day, must be paid for at least four hours.

OVERTIME RATE

Overtime at the rate of time and a half also must be paid everyone working more than 48 hours weekly. The overtime provisions are applicable to workers earning less than $60 a week.

For the protection of workers now receiving more than the legal minimums, any salary now being paid shall be deemed a contract and no cuts shall be applied as a consequence of the increases ex-

THREAT MADE TO PRESS FIGHT INTO INTERIOR

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29—General Iwane Matsui, the Japanese army commander, threatened today to attack 1,000 miles into China's interior.

Foreigners at Taingtao, on the North China coast, left by boat this time, withdrew from a threatened attack by another arm of the Japanese army striking across Shantung province.

Unless the Chinese government ends "anti-Japanese policies," Matsui warned, Japanese forces "may find it necessary" to advance to Hankow and Chungking and "May repudiate the national government of China."

General Election For Ireland Is Fresh Prospect

EIRE IS BORN SUCCESSOR TO THE SAORSTAT

New Constitution Creates Office of Presidency to Be Filled

By SEAN O'CATHAIN
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUBLIN, Dec. 29.—Prospects of a fresh general election and a contest for the presidency loomed today as the Saorstat Eireann—Irish Free State—at midnight ceased to exist and Eire, or Ireland, its successor under the new constitution, was born.

Another general election was considered almost certain early in the new year, possibly coinciding with an election to fill the newly-created post of president of Ireland. The fact that Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail party has but 67 seats in the Dail (parliament) against 69 for the combined other parties has constituted an embarrassment for the government since the election of last July 1.

DE VALERA DECLINES

It is understood that Sean O'Kelly, vice-president of the executive council, will be announced shortly as the Fianna Fail choice for the presidency. Alfred Byrne, perennial lord mayor of Dublin, already has announced he will stand for election unless Mr. De Valera is a candidate. Mr. De Valera has declined the nomination and under the new constitution becomes the taoiseach (prime minister). The provincial opposition party, the Fine Gael headed by W. T. Cosgrave, is not expected to enter a candidate in the presidential election but will probably throw its weight behind Mr. Byrne.

Through the League of Nations and diplomatic representatives abroad, the governments of the world have been officially informed of the change of name and the coming into operation of the new constitution.

NO CELEBRATION

It might be imagined that Irishmen are celebrating the historic event in the traditional fashion. Not a bit of it.

There is to be no public holiday today because it is too near Christmas and the New Year, but there may be a day off in 1938, or July 1, the anniversary of the adoption of the constitution by plebiscite.

A special program will be given today to inaugurate the constitution and Mr. De Valera will broadcast a message to Irishmen all over the world.

At the general post office, scene of the 1916 rising, which perhaps made the new constitution possible, a special stamp has been issued in celebration of the event.

CLAIMS WHOLE

It shows Eire as a female figure opening a volume on a lectern bearing the arms of the four provinces of Ireland. Under it, in fact the constitution claims as the national territory "The whole of Ireland, its islands and territorial seas."

Thousands of letters with a special cachet are leaving the Dublin today for collectors in all parts of the world.

The first big ceremony will be the swearing in of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court "of Ireland," Timothy Sullivan. In the presence of the Taoiseach he must swear to uphold the constitution and the laws. In turn, he will administer the oath to his brother judges. Anyone failing or refusing to take it loses his job.

SAFETY ACT GOES

With the passage of the Free State constitution at midnight there went the famous Article 2A, better known as the Public Safety Act. This measure was framed by the Cosgrave government in 1931 to suppress the Irish Republican army and end secret intimidation of laymen trying political charges.

Chief of its provisions was one enabling the police to retain suspects for 72 hours. Offences were tried by a military tribunal of army officers who had power to impose any sentence they wished, including death, and no appeal lay to any court except one to the government for clemency.

VALERA USED IT

Mr. De Valera, who opposed it as an "outrageous violation of law," suspended it when he came to power in 1932, but revived it shortly afterwards to crush the blue shirt organization and later the Republican army.

The Free State constitution was a thing of shreds and patches. In its 15 years existence it was amended 27 times. One of its articles prohibited amendments which were not within the terms of the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921, but Mr. De Valera made short work of that when he abolished the oath of allegiance to the throne and the right of appeal to the privy council. His final amendment ending the office of governor-general was made last year on the abdication of King Edward VIII.

Robina Higgins Outstanding Girl Athlete Of Canada

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Robina Higgins of Winnipeg, ace of the feminine division of Canada's team heading for the British Empire games in Australia, got the call today as the outstanding woman athlete in Canada in 1937.

By the margin of a single point in the Canadian Press year-end poll of sports writers, the 21-year-old javelin thrower edged out another Winnipeg luminary, Mrs. John Rogers, Canadian open golf champion for the honor.

New State Formed

When the new Irish constitution came into operation this morning, the 26 counties known since 1921 as the Irish Free State, became the State of Eire, or Ireland in the English language.

in reducing interest on Alberta bonds by 50 per cent. As Edmonton holds about $921,000 of Alberta bonds, the annual interest loss to the city amounts to about $22,500, on the basis of average bond interest of five per cent.

On the other hand, the city is paying full contracted interest rates on about $2,000,000 of Edmonton bonds held by the province.

REVERSED PAYMENT

Edmonton has not yet officially accepted the principle of the interest cut made by the government, since the city has refused to take payment on the lower rate of interest and has therefore not received any interest from the province since the reduction went into effect.

Mayor John W. Fry explained that both Edmonton and Calgary, represented by Mayor Andrew Davison, were now negotiating with the province in an attempt to obtain an equalization of interest amounts paid by the cities and the province.

ing and maintenance of roads and sidewalks.

While Mr. Goodall was scheduled to retire five or six years ago, due to his long service and good health he was rectified by the city and worked full-time until his death.

Thousands of citizens will remember him well—a short stocky figure astride a bicycle making his daily rounds for the engineering department. In this capacity his duties were multitudinous and civic officials always found "George" dependable on any and every occasion.

INTERESTED IN POLITICS

Always intensely interested in public affairs and politics, Mr. Goodall was a member of the East Edmonton Conservative Association and was president of the association during the years 1932-34-35.

He was also a member of the Royal North West Mounted Police Veterans' Association, and was associated with the Orange Order, I. O. O. F. and the Sons of England.

Shortly before his death he was honored by the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Old Timers' Association, who made him a life member while he was in hospital.

A voracious and selective reader, Mr. Goodall's home contained stack upon stack of volumes. He was particularly interested in biographies, historical novels and books on travels, and possessed, as well, a wide knowledge of the kindred arts.

MAYOR EXPRESSES REGRET

Informed of his death at noon Friday, Mayor John W. Fry expressed deep regret at the passing of a trusted servant of the city. "Our oldest employee, Mr. Goodall won a name for himself in the efficient performance of his duties. He was popular with the whole civic service and had a wide circle of friends outside. My deepest sympathy is extended to his relatives," Mayor Fry said.

City Engineer A. W. Haddow was also high in his praise of Mr. Goodall's qualities both as a servant of the city and as a friend. His loss, Mr. Haddow said, would be keenly felt throughout the service, particularly in the engineering department.

Mr. Goodall leaves a sister-in-law, Mrs. K. Cupper, 1835 Nelson Street, Vancouver, B.C., who came to the city after deceased was admitted to the hospital two weeks ago; two brothers and two sisters residing in London, Eng.; and two nieces, Mrs. G. Charles, of 11142 129 street; and Mrs. G. Williams, Stereo. Ed.

Mrs. Goodall predeceased him in 1911.

Andrews Brothers are in charge of funeral arrangements which will be announced later.

HUNDREDS PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO FATHER, SON

Victims of a level crossing accident near Aurora, Ill., Lorne M. Bell and A. Graham Bell, father and son, were buried in the Edmonton cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

Hundreds of friends of the family and business associates paid their last tribute, attending the funeral service at Andrews Brothers chapel and participating in the graveside ceremonies. Rev. J. W. Smith, minister at the Highlands United church and friend of the family, conducted the funeral services.

Pall bearers for Mr. Bell were: M. F. Hoy, R. Dugald, M. McLean, H. McFarlane, A. Lamont and C. Anderson, and for his son: George and Willard Anderson, Bert Shaldon, John Bond, Norman McLeod and John Kelly.

Favorite hymns of both father and son, "Unto the Hills do I Lift up Mine Eyes", and "Rock of Ages", were sung while Rev. Mr. Smith, taking as his text the last verse of the twenty-third Psalm: "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the house of The Lord forever," preached the funeral sermon.

Returning from a business trip to Eastern Canada and the United States, Mr. Bell and his son were motoring into Aurora when their car skidded 60 feet into the side of a moving passenger train. Both men were killed instantly. The accident occurred on the morning of December 23.

Mr. Bell was a partner in the Edmonton Bell Tire firm, and was carried on a machine repair shop at 10260 102 avenue. He resided at 11233 61 street. He was a native of Nova Scotia, coming to Edmonton in 1912. His son Graham, was employed in his business.

Surviving are Mrs. Bell, and one son Douglas.

JUDGE GIVES VERSE VERDICT AS PAIR UNITE

SASKATOON, Dec. 29.—A judgment in verse was given by Judge J. F. Bryant in district court here today following the reunion of Nellie Chorney, and her husband, George. They said the spirit of Christmas had brought it about.

When the judge heard of the reconciliation, he delivered his judgment:

"Peace on earth,
Good will to men,
Action dismissed—
Don't come again."

New Brunswick To End Ancient Debtor Prisons

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Dec. 29.—Said to be the only part of the British Empire, and probably the civilized world, where a person may be imprisoned for debt, New Brunswick may soon follow the example of other countries in abolishing the ancient law. The Barristers' society of New Brunswick has recommended abolition of imprisonment under this statute.

Four Years In Jail Term For Santa Forger

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — Lucious Parmalee, known to police as the "Santa Claus Forger," was sentenced to four years in Kingston penitentiary on fraud and forgery charges by Magistrate James Cowan Tuesday.

Essay Contest Prize Winner Flying North

When Gil McLaren of Mackenzie Air Service left Edmonton Wednesday morning on his scheduled flight to Goldfields he carried in the plane with him Richard Cull, youthful winner of the recent essay contest on aviation sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Northwest Chamber of Mines in conjunction with the local airway companies.

Bob Randall, who left a few hours later for Yellowknife carried Matt Berry for McMurray, George Hine, who will be agent and radio operator for Mackenzie Air Service at Yellowknife, and C. Byanch, for Yellowknife.

Denies Hood

Gen. Maxime Weygand, one of the most brilliant French leaders in the Great War, was mentioned in connection with the reported plot when it was stated that a house of his had been searched by police. He made an indignant denial of the suggestion that he was one of the "hooded ones."

EDMONTON LAD, 14, IS YOUNGEST RADIO OPERATOR

Robert Lamb, 14-year-old son of H. J. Lamb, 10168 114 street, has become one of Canada's champions just by being devoted to his hobby. He is the youngest licensed radio operator in the Dominion.

Using VE4AKK for his call letters, young Robert, a pupil at Oliver school, has sent his radio signals one flashing across the skies to distant points on the Pacific Coast, and says he is eager to make two way connections with places even farther from Edmonton than that.

Not content with merely hoobying in radio, the young enthusiast has made several transmitting and receiving sets with which to amuse himself in his spare hours.

In addition to Robert, there are 58 other amateur radio operators in the city licensed by the department of transport at Ottawa, and in touch with other amateurs throughout the world.

Arthur Craig, son of H. S. Craig, 10217 114 street and student of Victoria High School, is one of the more successful of these radio enthusiasts, according to radio officials. Since getting his license in May, 1936, he has been in communication with 28 different countries, situated on every continent except South America.

MUSIC RADIOED ACROSS OCEAN FOR ORCHESTRA

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Missing parts of an early choral-symphonical work by the Finnish composer, Jan Sibelius, were radioed across the Atlantic ocean last night, Boston Symphony Orchestra officials said, in time for the first American performance Friday afternoon.

The lost parts—for cello, viola, and bass viol — of "Origin of Fire" vanished along with what is believed to be the composer's original manuscript of the complete score, after being mailed in Leipzig, Germany, November 16, by the musical publishers.

New Division School Costs Is Demanded

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Redistribution of education costs was called for last night by President C. Lewis of the Ontario Teachers' Federation in an address at the second annual banquet of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. He branded present methods of raising money for education "about as efficient as an ox-cart on a modern highway."

Students Debate Many Subjects

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29.—In closed sessions the delegates to the National Students' conference today discussed such problems as special concessions for Canadian students travelling in Europe, establishment of a Canadian university press, student housing, athletic insurance and political questions. Efforts will be made to develop international relationships with student groups in other countries.

A committee was named to investigate possibility of resuming student tours, eliminated recently because of the depression.

ICE CAMPERS WILL TOAST NEW YEAR, '38

MOSCOW, Dec. 29—Russia's Arctic campers will bathe, shave and put on clean underwear to celebrate the New Year, they radioed Tuesday from their drifting floe. Then, they said they would listen to Moscow's midnight broadcast of the striking of the Kremlin clock and raise their glasses in a toast to 1938.

Bennett To Spend Holiday In Calgary

Hunting Wolves In Automobile Newest Sport In Ontario

GORE BAY, Ont., Dec. 29.—Hunting wolves on the eight-inch ice of Bayfield Sound by chasing them in an automobile is the newest sport on Manitoulin Island.

Miss Lorine McKinley of this village, accompanied in an automobile by Mrs. James McKinley, Mrs. D. W. Bailey, Sam McKinley and Willard Witty spied two wolves cross the road near the Indian Point bridge.

The car occupants borrowed a rifle and shotgun.

The cars flew driven onto the ice and pursuit began to the centre of the Sound. McKinley brought one of the wolves down. The party decided it was dead and started after the other. Witty's shot killed the second wolf.

But when the car got back to where the first wolf had been left, the animal, apparently only wounded, had made off into the bush.

Total amount of the contemplated increase is $200,000, or about five per cent of Quebec's total wage bill, according to C. H. Chesaley, member of the board.

Ontario Hopes For Minimum Wage

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 29. — Hon. M. M. MacBride, Ontario Labor minister, said today it was hoped next week to be able to announce the basis on which minimum wage schedules for male workers in Ontario's textile industry will be fixed.

Mr. MacBride said Ontario was watching closely Quebec's action in fixing minimum wages for men but would proceed slowly and seek to avoid hasty action.

"The industry and labor board has for some time been studying working conditions, wage schedules and classifications in the textile industry which is closely inter-related between Ontario and Quebec," he said.

"We have been watching what is transpiring in Quebec and next week will have all the data and information to make some announcement in connection with our own findings in the textile industry. We hope to reach something on which to set a minimum wage scale for the industry and that will be a basis for the board to proceed in other industries."

The minister said close attention was being given by the board to the boot and shoe industry in Ontario cities and early action might be expected.

In the last two months, the board had worked quietly to settle difficulties in 21 Ontario industries and agreements had been reached in all, he said.

GAMING HALL OF CASINO IS NOW SCHOOL

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 29.—President Lazaro Cardenas last night decreed expropriation of the once glittering Agua Caliente casino at Tijuana, lower California, for use as a school. The Tijuana gaming halls were darkened some time ago as one of the first acts of Cardenas' administration.

U.S. Plants Of General Motors Lay Off 30,000

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corporation, announced Tuesday that employment in General Motors plants throughout the United States will be reduced by approximately 30,000 employees effective January 1. Knudsen said no reduction had been ordered in Canadian General Motors plants because "business is normal there."

SOUTH AFRICA MAY IMPORT WHEAT CROP

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 29—South Africa, facing the prospect of a serious wheat shortage, may have to import grain to supplement an expected substandard crop. The government has imposed an embargo on exports of maize.

the building which was razed by the flames.

Besides the cafe and rooms, the building housed a barber shop operated by Dick Evanshan. It is owned by the city. There was no insurance on the contents. The Manitoba Rooms is owned by Weber Brothers, and was only slightly damaged.

REFUGEES SHELTERED

Those who fled from the flame-filled buildings into the intense cold were taken to the Ontario Rooms across the street for shelter.

Four firehalls, Nos. 2, 5, 8 and 8, responded to the two alarms, and firemen led by Chief A. Dutton and Deputy Chief Jim Macgregor battled the flames with seven lines of hose for more than an hour before it was finally brought under control. The intense cold, the smoke of burning bedding, and the ice which quickly formed underfoot, made the task of fire-fighting extremely difficult.

SUN-DOGS ARE SKY SPECTACLE ON WEDNESDAY

Appearance of "sun-dogs" in the sky Wednesday morning do not necessarily mean that Edmonton may expect a spell of stormy weather, according to Mrs. W. B. Owen, supervisor of the Dominion Meteorological station in the Highlands. "Sun-dogs are caused by a reflection of the sun on ice crystals, but contrary to popular opinion, they do not indicate there will be a spell of bad weather," the weather lady said.

Wednesday's weather forecast for Edmonton and district was "cold, moderating." At 2 p.m. the temperature was one degree below zero with a six-mile-an-hour south-southeast wind. The barometer reading at that hour was 27.66 decr. in.

Temperatures in the city are not as low as they were during the past few days, however, the lowest reading up to 9 a.m. Wednesday being 9 below, registered at 3, 4 and 8 p.m. Tuesday, while the highest mark during early Wednesday morning was 6 below, from 4 a.m. to 9 a.m.

From 10:30 a.m. Tuesday to 9 a.m. Wednesday one-half inch of snow fell on the city.

In the near north, Fort St. John took the 8.30 a.m. low temperature honors with a reading of 24 below, while on the other end of the scale were Pelican and Calling River, each with zero. Athabasca topped the snow receipts with a report of 3 or 4 inches, while Fairview reported 2 inches.

WIDER MARKET FOR CANADIAN HAMS POSSIBLE

Visitor Says Exporters Must Risk Selling At Guaranteed Price

Bigger business will reward Canadian ham exporters if they will risk selling at a guaranteed price for future delivery, according to T. Preston, of Liverpool, England, buying manager for the manufacturing firm of John A. Hunter and Co., Ltd., who arrived in Edmonton Wednesday morning in the course of a trans-Canada tour to consult with local packing company officials.

CANUCK PRODUCT BEST

Although the Canadian product is esteemed superior to United States ham, that country supplied 49.5 per cent of the British market as compared to 41 per cent supplied from the Dominion, Mr. Preston said.

The fact that United States exports sell at guaranteed prices on products marked for future delivery has been a major force in allowing them to obtain such a large share of the British market, the visitor argued as he urged the value of Canada adopting a similar policy.

SELL AT FIXED PRICE

"We should like to see Canadian exporters consent to sell at a fixed price, say, three or three months, or even more, ahead of delivery," he suggested.

Mr. Preston, who declared that British importing firms would welcome "a new selling policy by Dominion shippers," is a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

MAYOR FRY WILL VISIT CALGARY FOR CONFERENCE

Mayor John W. Fry will leave Edmonton Wednesday night for Calgary, where he will confer with Mayor Andrew Davison of that city and Mayor D. H. Elton, K.C., in connection with the brief which Alberta cities are submitting to the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations.

The mayor will be accompanied on his trip to Calgary by J. J. Duggan, who has been retained by the cities in an advisory capacity on taxation. Mr. Duggan has been engaged for a lengthy period on the preparation of the joint brief, which deals particularly with the question of taxation as distributed between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

Mayor Fry will return to the city Friday.

Restrictions For Marriage Asked: Health Is Sought

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Dec. 29. —City council has passed a resolution, sponsored by Alderman W. E. Affleck, calling for greater restrictions in issuing marriage licenses. It will be forwarded to the Dominion and Ontario governments. Affleck said men and women obtaining licenses should have a certificate of physical and mental health.

Medical Association Proposes War On Paralysis

LONG-RANGE STUDY PLAN IS SOUGHT

4,000 Canadians Afflicted In Polio Epidemic This Year

TORONTO, Dec. 28—Second only to cancer, infantile paralysis presents a problem which the Canadian Medical Association proposes to attack through nation-wide long-range research. More than 4,000 Canadians were afflicted in a five-month epidemic late this year.

The poliomyelitis epidemic—to give it its scientific tag—was the worst in Canada's history. It swept Saskatchewan and Manitoba, western and central Ontario and parts of the Maritimes. In the United States approximately 10,000 persons were stricken.

MOSTLY CHILDREN

Most of Canada's 4,000 sufferers were children under 14. The epidemic raged from June through October, leaving more than 1,000 patients in splints or on frames for many months due to after-effects.

While aimed chiefly at cancer research, the Canadian Medical Association's proposal to co-ordinate medical and scientific effort on a branch of the present national research council also embraces study of infantile paralysis.

The medical association is recommending to the Rowell Royal Commission on Dominion-provincial affairs the establishment of a medical research council and will cite facts regarding the 1937 epidemic to drive home its recommendations, The C.M.A. brief will be presented at Ottawa sittings of the commission next month.

Dr. T. C. Routley, official C.M.A. observer for the conference, convention, told The Canadian Press infantile paralysis "offers one of the greatest challenges to the medical profession, to philanthropists and all others who support medical research."

PERFECTLY MOBILIZED

"Never has Canada been so perfectly mobilized to cope with residual paralysis as now," he added. "A great deal is being accomplished through the co-operation of provincial health departments and health workers generally, but long-range research is urgently needed if this devastating disease is to be conquered."

He warned that while statistics indicated next year's incidence of polio would, in its ordinary cycle, be less, "no one knows where it will strike. It may perhaps make its greatest attack where it was practically absent this year."

An experiment in nasal spraying of 5,000 Toronto children with zinc sulphate—which the Ontario health department found could not be considered a practical treating method—was admittedly a disappointment to medical men. But it served to show the need for more industrious and better endowed research.

GRAIN FUTURE TRADE DELAYED

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The Chicago Board of Trade notified all its members Tuesday to postpone trading in September, 1938, grain future contracts "until further notice."

Board officials indicated the delay in deciding a trading date was ordered pending a decision by the Commodity Exchange Administration on proposed changes in trading regulations.

The C. E. A. concluded hearings recently on proposals for establishing limits on speculative commitments in grain futures and for changing the present trading method. The rulings were expected within 15 days. September futures trading ordinarily begins with the expiration of December contracts, in which trading ceased Tuesday.

Deaths Mishap Jury Declares

HAMILTON, Ont., Dec. 29—A coroner's jury inquiring into the death of three men in the fire and explosion that destroyed the Steel Company of Canada benzol recovery plant here Dec. 15, returned a verdict Tuesday of accidental death and said all proper precautions had been taken by the company for employees' safety.

Caught in the benzol recovery plant by the fire, James F. Osborne, Thomas E. Nicholson and Prime Pipanti lost their lives.

Wilfred Clairmont, inspector of the provincial fire marshal's department, said he was unable to determine cause of the explosion.

Crazed Filipino Kills Countrymen

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 29.—A Filipino dishwasher, quoted by police as saying he "went crazy" when his wife left him, killed at least three countrymen and wounded 10 others today in an outburst of shooting and stabbing in the Filipino district.

Two police officers captured the man, booked as Bonifacio Aranda, 38, in headquarters of the Filipino Pine Association of California half an hour after occupants of a three-block area had fled in terror before the assailant.

Red Plot Foiled

PARIS, Dec. 29—The accused chief of a secret rightist organization Tuesday told an investigating magistrate the French army's general staff foiled a Communist revolution planned for mid-November with "Support of the Soviet ambassador to France."

Nude Wails

New York doesn't appreciate a good nude show when it sees one, lamented beauteous Dorritt Merrill, the veiled and fox-furred young woman shown above, as she sailed for London with 70 other jobless show girls—all devotees of undress, after the French Casino closed its doors. "I gave them the finest nude show New York ever saw," said Dorritt, "and still they closed."

COUNCIL GIVES $125 GRANT TO U.F.A. MEETING

Acting on a recommendation of commissioners, city council Tuesday night authorized a grant of $125 toward the costs of the U. F. A. convention which will be held in the Masonic Temple, Edmonton, January 18 to 21. The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce solicited this grant.

Commissioners reported that the U. F. A. conventions, held alternately at Calgary and Edmonton, are attended by 700 to 800 delegates from country districts, and that in the past the city assisted the convention by making a grant to cover the cost of renting convention headquarters.

The sum of $125 authorized by council Tuesday as a contribution will cover the cost of headquarters for the forthcoming U. F. A. meeting.

EXPERTS MEET IN AIR COOLING STUDY DEC. 27

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29—Experts from nine schools discussed the progress of air conditioning at the annual chemical engineering symposium of the Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the American Chemical society here Dec. 27 and 28.

Scientists from the Universities of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, California and the Louisville; Massachusetts Institute of Tecnology, Cooper Union and Columbia and Yale universities reported on the technical and economic aspects of air conditioning, in addition to a round-table discussion of drying equipment.

Fifteen industrial laboratories were also represented.

Prof. Norman W. Krase, head of the chemical engineering department of the University of Pennsylvania, presided at the opening session at the university.

Mexico May Co-Operate To Bolster Silver

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—A temporary silver agreement with Mexico indicated last night the United States might continue to collaborate with other nations to buoy the price of the white metal.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the Mexican finance minister, Eduardo Suarez, announced after a morning conference the United States would continue to buy newly-mined Mexican silver at a delivered price of 45 cents an ounce through January, and would confer again about a longer range program.

13,000 Mink Pelts On Auction Block

MONTREAL, Dec. 29. — More than 13,000 mink pelts went on the auction block Tuesday as buyers from Canada, the United States and Europe gathered here for a four-day fur sale. Sale of 21,000 silver fox pelts will hold the spotlight during the remainder of the auction, featured by Thursday's offering of 6,500 skins from the Ontario Fur Farmers' Association.

Bucharest Has New Government

BUCHAREST, Dec. 29.—Octavian Goga, leader of the Fascist-inclined National Christian party, succeeded last night in forming a new government which foreign observers predicted would swing Rumania away from the democratic powers toward the Rome-Berlin axis.

Goga and his ministers went to the palace and took the oath of office before King Carol, who earlier Tuesday called on the anti-Semitic statesman to undertake the task.

America has many shades of nail polishes so that practically any evening ensemble can be matched.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

Freight Engine Plunges Through Washed-Out Bridge

VANCOUVER, Dec. 29 — Two trainmen were injured, one fatally, when the locomotive and tender of a Canadian National Railway freight train plunged through a bridge at Wolfe Creek on Vancouver Island Tuesday.

Engineer Robert Winter died in a Victoria hospital last night 10 hours after he had been rescued from his engine cab where he had been pinned and badly scalded by a bursting steam pipe.

Winter was rushed to Victoria by special train with Conductor C. Woods who suffered a broken collarbone and two fractured ribs.

Fifteen workmen on the train first over the storm-blocked division in five days escaped injury when the freight cars braked to a stop on the brink of the broken bridge end.

C.N.R. officials said the bridge had been "badly scoured" by high water caused by a quick thaw. The locomotive tender piled on top of the engine, and Winters was badly scalded when a steam pipe broke. Conductor Woods suffered a broken collarbone and two broken ribs.

Dictators' Loud Boasting Is Due To Fear, Claim

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29.—The struggle for power is a fundamental of life, Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, chairman of ethics at Union Theological Seminary, New York, last night told delegates to the national conference of Canadian university students.

Man strove for power because he was conscious of his insecurity and the weak men strove most. "Who is it that talks most about an eternal Rome? Dictators who don't know whether they will still be in power the day after tomorrow."

Society's problem was to equalize power to eliminate as much injustice as possible but to retain enough power to prevent anarchy.

Wife Is Hacked, Husband Hanged

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Hacked with an axe, Mrs. Joseph Nozzono was found dead in her home last night, and soon afterwards her husband's body was discovered hanging from a transom in an upper room of the house.

The 36-year-old housewife was lying in the hallway of St. Denis-Main street home when her son James, 14, returning from work, saw her sprawled body through the glass pane of the locked outer door. She was dead by the time a doctor had arrived.

The son told police his parents frequently quarrelled. He said he had been at work all day. Police said they found nothing to explain the double death.

Rebels Fight To Re-Take Teruel

HENDAYE, Dec. 29.—Spanish insurgent troops last night stormed heights dominating Teruel in a drive to retake the captured provincial capital and rescue a force of beleaguered comrades.

They drove at the Aragon front city just as the Spanish government announced it Barcelona that Insurgents in the Teruel seminary had surrendered after holding out for several days. Insurgents still fought government troops from the Bank of Spain and the city hall, Barcelona reported.

War Makes Music

TOKYO, Dec. 29.—Modern war makes good music, says Composer Keigo Horiuchi, back from China with a lively symphony repertoire of machine guns, contralto of trench mortars, baritone of anti-aircraft guns and bass of heavy cannon."

The new London to Cape Town air record is now one day, 21 hours, and six minutes. It was set by A. E. Clouston and Mrs. Betty Kirby Green, in a de Havilland comet plane.

Before The Storm

Kisses stolen from her ex-husband, Jack Doyle, crooning Irish heavyweight boxer, allegedly by Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde are worth $2,000,000 to Judith Allen, dark-eyed Hollywood motion picture actress who has filed suit of alienation of affections against the wealthy matron. Miss Allen and Doyle were married in 1935 but were divorced when the screen beauty claimed he wasn't polite enough to her. "I am all mixed up," said Doyle when informed of the suit. Miss Allen and Doyle are shown above in a photograph taken shortly after their marriage when their love for each other was stronger than at present.

Judith Must Start Again In Love Suit

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29—Superior Judge Robert Kenny sustained a demurrer Monday to Screen Actress Judith Allen's $2,000,000 damage suit in which Mrs. Delphine Dodge Godde, motor heiress, was accused of stealing the love of Jack Doyle, singing boxer.

The ruling means Miss Allen will have to file a new complaint if she wishes to press the suit.

Miss Allen charged Mrs. Godde spent much money, and lavished gifts on Doyle, preventing an expected reconciliation between him and the actress, who obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce last April.

New Brunswick To Honor Hazen

SAINT JOHN, Dec. 29.—New Brunswick will pay official tribute Wednesday to the late Sir Douglas Hazen, one of her sons who rose from the desk of a court reporter to the leadership of the province's civic capital and rescue a force of beleaguered comrades.

They drove at the Aragon front city just as the Spanish government announced it Barcelona that Insurgents in the Teruel seminary had surrendered after holding out for several days. Insurgents still fought government troops from the Bank of Spain and the city hall, Barcelona reported.

Funeral Held For Scottish Author

LONDON, Dec. 29 — Funeral services were held Tuesday at Auchterarder, Scotland, for Elizabeth Sanderson Haldane, 73, noted Scottish author, philosopher and public worker. One of her three brothers, the late Lord Haldane, as secretary for war, reorganized the British army in the 1900's. She died December 24 following an operation.

HIGH SPOTS IN BUSINESS TREND

By The Canadian Press

Developments in Canadian business and industry in 1937 included:

Despite restrictive outside influence in autumn, business indices show gain of about nine per cent over 1936.

Dominion becomes world's fifth largest trading nation.

Total exports for 11 months reach $1,008,006,313, gain of 17 per cent over corresponding period of 1936. Imports record much greater increase.

Wheat production declines, due chiefly to Saskatchewan drought, reports dropping 60 per cent in 11 months ended Nov. 30.

Industrial production for 10 months shows 10 per cent gain over the comparable 1936 period.

Gold production now is about $12,000,000 monthly, wicked output up 35 per cent and copper 25 per cent.

Important production gains made in pig iron, footwear, gypsum, asbestos, crude petroleum, Portland cement and commercial salt.

Dividends of Canadian corporations reach all-time record with estimated total of $328,900,000.

United Canada Is Advocated By Prime Minister

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—A United Canada should be the objective for Canadians during the forthcoming year, Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared last night. The result of Monday's by-election in Lotbiniere should set an example for all Canada, he said.

Interviewed following Tuesday's cabinet council the Prime Minister said there were no government announcements and the victory of A. N. Francoeur over his Independent-Nationalist opponent in the by-election was the most interesting subject discussed.

CANADA CROP OPTION HELD, PAPER AVERS

London Daily Herald Says Britain Has Arranged For Wheat

LONDON, Dec. 29. — The ministry for defence co-ordination and the Board of Trade today denied published reports they had negotiated an option for Great Britain on the entire Canadian wheat crop to ensure Britain's food supply in time of war.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Daily Herald (Labor) today stated the United Kingdom had engineered an option on the entire Canadian wheat crop to ensure part of the British food supply in time of emergency.

The Herald said the option had been engineered by the board of trade and Sir Thomas Inskip, minister of defence co-ordination. It added that Whitehall experts and the Canadian Wheat Board had been in secret negotiation on the matter for some months.

The Herald said that should the option ever have to be taken up it would cost Great Britain about £100,000,000 ($500,000,000) together with $5,000,000 which it said was the price of the option.

The newspaper's article continued: "This is part of a great scheme for importing and storing emergency supplies."

Gardiner Says Story Unlikely

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—Agriculture minister Gardiner said last night he knew of no basis for a story in the London Daily Herald which said the United Kingdom had engineered an option on the entire Canadian wheat crop as emergency insurance.

The minister said as far as he knew no such step had even been discussed.

He pointed to the probability that Canada's wheat exports during the 1937-38 crop year (Aug. 1 to July 31) will not exceed 85,000,000 bushels and that there was in the entire country only 215,000,000 harvest only about 215,000,000 bushels.

Gardiner, the minister said, he knew of no central organization through which such negotiations could be carried out, because the Canadian wheat board now owned no wheat and even the government did not know in whose hands the existing supply was held.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29—R. C. Findlay, assistant chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, denied the board had been in negotiations with British authorities for such an option.

SEA GULL NAPS AND FREEZES IN: THAWED BY TUG

DUNKIRK, N.Y., Dec. 29.—Capt. E. G. Tuttle of the tug New York, owned and operated by the Booth Fisheries, has run across "one of the strangest sights I've ever seen in all the years I've spent on the lakes."

The New York was on its way out of the harbor here, the captain said, when one of the crew members spied a large sea gull fluttering helplessly on top of the ice.

The captain, despite his hurry to get out into the open grounds beyond the harbor, stopped the boat, churned backward through the broken ice and came alongside the bird.

An examination revealed that the gull apparently had fallen asleep while floating in the water during the night and the cold weather had frozen the surface around the bird a prisoner. Its legs and a part of its body were below the ice line.

Crew members brought a hot water hose into use, directing a stream of water in a circle around the gull, which seemed to get the idea and remained quiet. The ice line melted and after trying its wings a few times the bird circled the tug twice and disappeared.

Coal And Cattle Pact Expected To Be Renewed

DUBLIN, Dec. 29—An indication the coal-cattle pact between Great Britain and the Irish Free State would be renewed in 1938 with minor changes was seen Tuesday in the announcement Ireland would take the same quantity of coal from the United Kingdom during the coming year as in 1937.

War Materials Boost Exports

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Foreign trade experts of the commerce department said today "enormous" exports of war materials were keeping United States sales abroad at a high level and providing a cushion for declining business at home.

At the same time, they estimated final figures for 1937 would show that American firms and individuals sold abroad at least $200,000,000 more in commodities and manufactures than they purchased in other lands.

COMPLAINT OF CANADA HOUSE AMAZES KING

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—Prime Minister Mackenzie King expressed surprise last night at a report Liberal members proposed to complain to the department of treasury they received at the hands of Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, and the staff of Canada House, London, during the coronation ceremonies last summer.

"My understanding," the prime minister said, "was that they all did a wonderful job. They were kept great pressure on Canada House during the coronation and I thought they handled the situation remarkably well."

"If complaints are to be made in parliament," the prime minister added, "we will meet them when they arise."

According to a news story in the Ottawa Evening Journal Liberal members whose names were not mentioned were incensed over the "lack of attention and scant courtesy" shown them when they visited Canada House. The newspaper said the members also complained for poor seating arrangements for the coronation proceedings.

$4,020 Granted For Community Skating Rinks

Grants totalling $4,020 for Community League skating rinks were authorized by city council Tuesday night on the recommendation of commissioners.

In this connection commissioners reported: "It will be noted that 21 rinks qualify as Class A rinks, and as a Class B rink, while there are three special rinks. Under the scale of allowances the Class A rinks are entitled to utility services not exceeding $100 and a cash grant of $50, whereas the grant allowed the Class B rinks are entitled to utility services not exceeding $50 and a cash grant by the public school board of $50."

With reference to the three special rinks, commissioners recommended that Windsor Park be granted $20, Glenora $80, and Forest Heights $50, a total of $150, owing to the fact that this rink has no piped water available.

250 Unemployed Entertained At Bissell Mission

On Monday evening the gymnasium of the Bissell building was transformed into a fairyland of Christmas decorations—trees, scenery, lights and firelight—when the mission of the United Church, known as All People's gave its annual Christmas concert for unemployed men. More than 250 accepted the invitation to be present and enjoyed a delightful program of Christmas music presented by the junior choir of Metropolitan United church, under the leadership of Mrs. D. V. Hicks. Mr. Harold Miller, L.R.S.M., accompanied throughout.

A short address was given by Mrs. A. D. Miller, chairman of All People's board, who brought greetings of the church to the gathering. The Young People's Society of the Bissell Memorial presented a Christmas pageant, written by the superintendent of the mission, entitled "A Star in the Night."

Mr. Ted Stephens added the music which went with the production.

Following the program and the singing of familiar Christmas choruses in which everybody joined, lunch was served. Mrs. J. T. Stephen and Miss M. George, superintending that part of the evening's activities. As each man left the hall he was presented with a package of Christmas cheer, made possible by the generous givings of more fortunate citizens.

PANAY MOVIE ON FLIGHT TO WASHINGTON

Film is Insured For $350,000—Photographer Describes Incident

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—A reel of historic film, picturing the bombing and destruction of the United States gunboat Panay in the Yangtze river, was carried eastward by special plane last night, under the eyes of armed guards.

The film reached here by Clipper plane from the Orient this morning in care of Norman Alley, Universal newsreel photographer who was wounded as he photographed the bombing and gunning of the Panay by Japanese planes Dec. 12.

More than 20 police and federal agents, heavily armed, directed unloading, transfer and despatching of the film, insured for $350,000. The negatives will reach New York at 1:30 a.m. M.S.T. tomorrow. Prints will be sped to the state department at Washington, D.C., and to every corner of the United States for public showing.

There was no possible chance, Alley declared here, "that Japanese pilots mistook the Panay for a ship of other than American registry. The colors were painted on the deck and a flag was flying from the mast," he said. "The planes poured leaved to us and let loose with bombs and machine-guns.

"Both lifeboats from the Panay, which were machine-gunned, showed American flags," he said.

Nations Fearing War Helpless To Check Dictators

WINNIPEG, Dec. 29.—Democratic nations feel impotent power to check aggression of dictator-governed nations "but we are unable to see that power because we fear war," Dr. Reinhold Neibuhr told the Canadian club in an address Tuesday.

Dr. Niebuhr declared democratic nations may bring on a world catastrophe by their efforts to avoid it. The doctor declared to stay war it also would involve the most serious dislocation of commerce and industry.

"We would have to adopt such heroic measures to stay out that we could not do it," he said. "The only way to stay out is to wait war is not to have it take place."

WOOL SPINNING HELPS BALANCE FAMILY BUDGET

BUSHMORE, Minn., Dec. 29.—Mrs. Martha Odens, who cooled wool and knitted socks for her six children when she was 11 years old, came forward today in favor of the old spinning wheel.

She still follows the pattern of grandmother's day and earns a comfortable living for herself and children by carding and spinning wool, which she knits into a variety of articles. Business, she says, reaches as far as Illinois.

Her output last year, she said, included woollen yarn from 1,000 pounds of wool for 11 comforters, 118 pairs of mittens, and 18 sweaters, all of which she knit herself. In her spare time she finds leisure to crochet lace and insertions for pillow cases, and fancy tops for sofa pillows.

Mrs. Odens' first tutor was her grandmother, who acquired the art in her native Germany. The wheel she now operates was purchased by her late husband 21 years after she had "worn out" the one she had used for years previous to that time.

She takes great care in selection of wool. Particularly, she is on the outlook for wool which is refractory to popular belief, she said, it is not the wool itself which scratches the skin, but the points of burrs left in it.

Prepayment Of 1938 Taxes To Draw Interest

City council Tuesday passed a by-law authorizing the prepayment of 1938 taxes in whole or part up to January 15, persons making such payments receiving interest at the rate of four per cent on amounts paid. This policy has been adopted by council for several years past in order to obtain approximately $600,000 needed to meet expenditures during the early part of the year.

Last January more than $900,000 was received by the city in the form of tax prepayments.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 29

DECEMBER SHOWERS

Canada had a white Christmas, including that large section of the wheat belt which of late years has not been getting enough moisture to grow crops. Despatches from points in the dry districts tell of four foot snow drifts, blocked roads, and the other conditions indicative of a generous supply of the winter substitute for summer showers. If a "regular" winter predicts a regular summer, the farmers in that area have more than the usual reasons for good cheer in the festal season.

ALWAYS HAPPENS SOMEWHERE

This year the envy-inspiring news comes from Fernie, B.C., where an observant housewife found a gold nugget in the crop of the Christmas turkey. To give an air of verisimilitude to an otherwise bald and perhaps unconvincing narrative, the turkey came from southern Alberta, near the British Columbia border. Somewhere, apparently, in the area where a gold rush flowed and ebbed a few years ago.

Of course, it wasn't much of a nugget; only as large as a small pea. Still, gold is gold, and a nugget of any size is welcome, particularly when it comes unexpectedly and at no extra cost of time or labor. Maybe the gold mining companies are overlooking something. A flock of turkeys might pick up more than seeds and insects in the Goldfields territory.

LOTBINIERE

The significance of the by-election in Lotbiniere is not that the Liberal candidate won; he has always won, whoever he happened to be. The important thing is that his Nationalist opponent was rejected, along with his cry of "no war, no armament, and greater autonomy for Quebec." Unconditional pacifism, blind unpreparedness, and aggressive provincialism were the repudiated, and the verdict of Canada in the history of a riding where majorities always run into thousands.

If the trend in Lotbiniere is any indication of the trend elsewhere in Quebec, the people of that province have no desire to see their Canada, unarmed and helpless, as a prize for any predatory power that may covet our resources. Nor any desire to pull the Dominion to pieces and substitute a loose association of jangling provinces, each boasting a quasi independence it would be unable to support.

AN EASY CONQUEST

The Japanese armies are ramping around in China like the proverbial bull in the China shop, if one of those rampant quadrupeds ever did get into an establishment of that kind. They have captured the seventh provincial capital and now hold a correspondingly number of provinces. Their original objective was five provinces, which according to the official spokesman were to be held indefinitely just to teach the Chinese to love their neighbors and stop suspecting them of predatory aims.

But since Shanghai fell things have been going so smoothly for the invaders their ambitions have no doubt expanded with their progress. If five provinces why not seven, and if seven why not ten, or the whole country if the Chinese army continues to vanish as they advance? The race may not always be to the swift nor the battle to the strong, but the Japanese do not believe the Bible and for the time have pretty successfully demonstrated the contrary.

For the time; there's the rub. They are getting a long way from home; and history records some interesting episodes in the careers of conquerors who over-reached. History also has a way of repeating.

A MILLION DOLLAR STORE

To the building trades in particular and to the public in general it is welcome news that the Hudson's Bay Company plan to start the erection of a million dollar store building in Edmonton next spring. Work is thus assured for men who might otherwise be idle during the summer, and business in many lines will feel the stimulus of the large expenditure. Indirectly, but none the less real, will be the benefit to the community from this convincing declaration that Edmonton is recognized by the pioneer trading company as a place where larger quarters are now required and certain to be still more needed in future.

If anywhere there have been doubts as to Edmonton's position as a trading centre, present or prospective, this million dollar testimony to present business conditions and the outlook for continued and growing activity should help to dispel them. The Hudson's Bay Company was here before there was any Edmonton outside the palisades of the fort, and it has enlarged its quarters repeatedly. That its already large premises do not satisfactorily accommodate its operations and provide for the foreseen expansion of trade is proof at once of the enterprise of the company, the growth of business in Edmonton, and the assured prospect of the city as a commercial centre.

BUSSES FOR CARS

Edmonton, like other cities, is moving in the direction of a radical change in its transportation system from the street car to the more mobile and less noisy bus. Commissioner Gibb proposes a ten year period of reconstruction and modernization, in which the prominent feature is the opening up of new bus routes, from residential areas to and through the main business districts of the city.

Busses running on these routes would compete with the street cars. Hitherto the bus has only supplemented the street railway service in sections where rails were not put down in the earlier years, and in one or two instances where the cars were withdrawn after years of service. It is to be inferred the bus has been found to be an economic and satisfactory substitute for the car on these routes. Its appearance as a competitor with the cars to and through the business area marks another step toward the eventual abandonment of the cars and the substitution of busses throughout the city.

In other cities, some larger than Edmonton and some smaller, this transition is already definitely under way; in a few cases is now complete. Edmonton's street railway and its equipment are wearing out. Heavy expense is inevitable, either to repair the trackage and buy new cars, or to replace the cars with busses as they become obsolete. The latter course is in line with what is being done elsewhere, and is apparently justified by the experimental use of the bus on certain runs here.

BUT DO THEY MAKE US VALUE FREEDOM?

If the world's conscience is longer capable of being shocked, then despatches these days from Tokyo and Moscow must make painful reading.

From Moscow comes word—it has been coming regularly for weeks now—of another blood purge; of men high in the Soviet ranks being recalled from foreign posts to disappear in Moscow; of famous soldiers, diplomatists and officials being liquidated. Not in a thousand years of civilization, not even when the Western World was overrun by barbarians, has history seen anything like this.

And from Tokyo? Yesterday's cables told of a nation-wide series of raids on all opposed to the rape of China; of arrests of members of Parliament, noted authors, university professors. The nation is in militarist chains.

In these things, we wonder, make us value liberty? We magnify the penalties of democracy. Chafe under its checks and balances. Complain over its inefficiency. A controversy such as we have had these past days, we condemn and deplore.

Yet these things, what are they in evil compared to what is happening in lands like Russia and Japan? Is it not something, after all, something priceless, to be able to speak freely even when speaking wrongly or foolishly? To have our souls and consciences unchained? To be able to stand up and tell a Government it is wrong, if we think it wrong?—Ottawa Journal.

CANADIANS SET THE PACE

This year approximately 12,000 Canadians registered on the visitors' book at Canada House, London. This is not an estimate, but a fact stated by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, while presiding at a Canada Club dinner held recently, when the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester, was guest of honor and chief speaker.

Coronation ceremonies would account for the presence in London of so many Canadians; and no doubt there were others who neglected to register. The extensive tourist traffic from Canada to the heart of Empire was dwelt upon both by his Royal Highness and by the Chairman. Mr. Massey said: "I hope that I am running no risk of initiating a trade controversy when I say that Canadians would be happy to see a greater measure of reciprocity in this field."—Toronto Globe and Mail.

A CRITICAL VIEW

The Canadian Government at this moment is seeking the consent of the provinces to the inauguration of a federal plan of unemployment insurance and is paying very little regard to the question of cost. Few people quarrel with the principle of unemployment insurance, but there is a great deal of ground for criticism of the present federal policy from an actuarial point of view. In the first place, the Dominion proposes to provide unemployment insurance under conditions which promise a maximum liability, conditions which necessitate a maximum of expenditure as against a minimum contribution. The scheme is to be made to walk before it has crawled; it is to go into effect without financial preparation, and in conflict with the principles upon which sound insurance is based. The most that can be said of the enterprise is that an attempt is being made to do a right thing in a wrong way.

A short time ago General Hugh S. Johnson gave a radio address on the social security tax of the United States, which address has been republished in the December 1 issue of Vital Speeches.

General Johnson agrees that old age pensions and unemployment compensation are necessary, but he emphasizes the difference between the method pursued by insurance companies, the investment of premiums, and the practice of the United States Government in spending the proceeds of social security taxes on the various enterprises upon which it is engaged. There will be only debts in the social security reserve, nothing but a paper IOU. That is not the case with companies, where there is property piled up to pay from: property bought through the years and held in trust until the debt is due." Is this, or something like this, what is contemplated in Canada? If General Johnson is right, the United States Government, having spent the proceeds of the social security tax, will have to go on borrowing or taxing and the workers and consumers will have to go on paying, they and their children. The burden of the latter will be doubled and that of the grandchildren may be trebled. General Johnson insists that it is the poor who are paying and not the rich, that instead of distributing wealth the Government is distributing poverty, that the Federal Administration is, in fact, levying a new direct income tax on the pretext that it is an insurance premium and the money is being used for current spending. Johnson demands that the situation be changed, that what has been a terrible blunder be rectified, and he adds: "Federal taxation must be levied on the principle of ability to pay. We can't continue unlimited spending out of the pockets of the poor. If the Government can't work out reserves of real values behind these savings on the principle of insurance, then this tax must be repealed, and social security paid for out of the current revenues of the Government in taxes assessed where they can be paid with the least hardship," etc. It is a strong indictment and it discloses a danger which this country, in dealing with questions of social security, will do well to consider and avoid.—Montreal Gazette.

THE STORY OF THE BISON

The annual thinning of the buffalo—or more properly bison—preserved in the Canadian National Park near Wainwright in Alberta is now at hand. The herd there has had an interesting history. In 1907 the Canadian Government purchased 716 pure-bred bison from an American rancher who had protected a remnant of these splendid beasts until it grew into a herd. Over 600 were placed in the Park near Wainwright. There they increased and multiplied until their numbers threatened to become too numerous for the grazing, and it became necessary to kill off a portion of the herd every year. Not all, however, were killed. Far away in the north of Alberta and in the adjoining North-West Territory there still survived two herds of "wood buffalo," survivors of a much larger population of bison which had once extended almost from the Peace River as far as the Great Slave Lake. In 1903 the Canadian Government gave timely orders for their protection. A huge tract of almost uninhabited country was reserved for them, under the name of Wood Buffalo Park, and after the War surplus bison from the Wainwright Park were frequently sent to stock this empty region.

It was a practice criticized by some Canadian naturalists on the ground that the "wood buffalo" were a different race from the "prairie buffalo"; that the resultant hybrid race would be less fitted to survive near the northern limit of the bison's range; and that it might be less fertile. These fears have proved groundless. Mr. Raup, an American naturalist who recently studied the bison in the Wood Buffalo Park, reported that the new crossed herds were doing well and that there was no evidence that crossing produced any degeneration: he only recommended that some specimens of the pure woodland race, the Bos americanus athabiscae, should be obtained for museums before the mixed breed had become predominant. His report on their habits showed that they were genuinely wild beasts, living largely in winter on the sedges in frozen marshlands, suffering at times from the attacks of wolves, much troubled by "bulldog flies" in late summer, now and again perishing in swamps or crashing through thin ice in spring, but nevertheless a strong and increasing community.

The results of the protection of bison in Canada are more impressive and welcome when it is realized that in 1887 the Report of the United States National Museum estimated the total of live bison in the whole North American Continent at 1,019. In that year there were only eighty-five wild bison left in the United States; 456 survived in parks and zoological gardens, and the balance was made up by the "wood buffaloes" of the far north. A major zoological tragedy was indeed only just averted by a few public-spirited men who protected the survivors of the millions that had once ranged from Dakota to Texas. The story of their wasteful destruction makes melancholy reading. No doubt the invasion of the prairies by the white cattle-breeder and farmer must have proved fatal to the bison in any case, but their extermination reflected no credit on either the white or the Indian. The construction of the Union Pacific Railway divided the bison into two herds; for the beasts fled fifty miles from each side of the railway as if they could foresee what it would bring them. In the three years 1872-74 white hunters killed 3,000,000 of the southern bison herd, and it had been wiped out by 1880. The building of the North Pacific Railway completed the destruction of the northern herd in 1883. Herds were rounded up and shot to the last calf. Professional hunters were driven out of business at a time, took their hides and tongues, and left the carcasses to rot. The Indians, who used the hides of cow bisons by preference, showed, according to the same authority, "a recklessness of the future that was not to be expected of savages, though perhaps . . . natural to civilized white men who place the . . . dollar above everything else." Indeed the history of the American buffalo between 1860 and 1883 leaves us wondering, not that so few survived, but that any survived at all.—London Times.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Men have eaten the eggs of turkeys, geese, ducks, ostriches and even reptiles, but from a standpoint of nourishment there is very little difference between the eggs of different birds. However, because of economic factors, the eggs of hens are most commonly used.

It is estimated that every man, woman and child on this continent eats an average of two hundred eggs a year. Eggs are one of the most valuable kinds of food from which protein or muscle-building material can be obtained, and they may be prepared in such a variety of ways that they do not become tiresome. Even those who are attempting to use a vegetable diet usually include eggs and in this way manage to secure sufficient protein to remain well.

Most people will find they are able to use between one and two eggs daily, and a good average for a week is probably ten to twelve eggs. A very large amount of the white of the egg may be used by anyone. A few people find the yolk of the egg contains such a large amount of sulphur that it gives rise to dissetive disturbance when used to excess. However, one or two eggs daily should not inconvenience anyone in good health.

In purchasing eggs, try to get them as fresh-laid as possible, as the fresher they are, the better the flavor. Eggs may be kept in cold storage in a fresh condition for a long time so that a properly prepared cold storage egg may almost be termed a fresh egg. The color of the shell is immaterial, as it has nothing to do with the nutritive value of the egg.

In choosing eggs in the market it is well to pay some attention to their size, for two good sized eggs may weigh more than three small pullet eggs. Three-fifths of the egg is almost pure albumen, dissolved in water. The yolk contains a large amount of fat, and also phosphorous and sulphur. In addition it contains lecithin, which is beneficial in promoting growth and building a strong nervous system. Eggs contain vitamins A, B and D; also iron. They are in the acid-forming class and therefore must be balanced by using qualitities of alkaline-forming foods, such as vexetables, which, however, need not be taken at the same meal, but should be used sometime during the day.

Some patients with a tendency to billiousness believe that eggs are bad for the liver. I find this may be true only when too many other nourishing foods are left out of the same meal, or when too many kinds of protein are used on the same day on which the eggs are taken.

When cooking eggs, remember that they are more easily digested when partially cooked, and are hard to digest when used raw or when cooked very hard. The poorest way to prepare eggs is by frying, as this makes them hard to digest.

Those wishing some healthful recipes on egg preparation are welcome to send for my article called "BEST WAYS OF PREPARING EGGS." Send your request to me and enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION—Ruth B. writes: "I find that rinsing my hair with water to which I add the juice of a lemon helps to keep it soft. Will this injure the hair?

ANSWER: A lemon rinse such as you describe is generally considered to be beneficial to the hair.

QUESTION—"A Messenger Boy" writes: "I am troubled with feet that perspire a great deal. Although the feet are washed frequently, this doesn't help much. What should I do for this condition?"

ANSWER: Many patients are troubled greatly with smelling feet having a disagreeable odor. In such cases the best thing to do is to use Epsom salt baths twice each day, drying the feet, and sifting talcum powder between the toes and over the feet. You should wear the newest shoes you have and continue with this cleansing of the feet until there is no more noticeable sweating. Then it is all right to wash the feet at night with soap and water and to powder them each morning before donning a fresh pair of hose. In some cases bathing the feet in hot and then cold water will do a great deal to overcome sweating, as it tones up the skin.

QUESTION—Miss Alethe S. asks: "Will you please tell me what to do for a weak stomach? After eating my breakfast I become very nauseated."

ANSWER: Your trouble is more than likely due to some reflex cause such as a faulty position of the stomach, liver or intestines. Unless pressure upon the pelvic organs is a frequent cause of nausea. A good diagnosis of your case by a physician who uses the X-ray would determine the cause of your nausea.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail)—Like the Fat Boy in Pickwick, Mr. Winston Churchill seems rather to enjoy making people's flesh creep. Continuing the debate on the second reading of the Air Raid Precautions Bill he reminded the House that several years ago he had envisaged an air raid on London which might drive three or four millions of people out into the street without food or water.

J. E Norcross

It would be done by the use of incendiary bombs, he had then said. Since then he declared, the incendiary thermite bomb had become far more powerful.

There was sometimes talk, he continued, of a "nine days war"—a war so short that the scarcity of food or raw material would not prevent the aggressor striking down his victim and gaining a victory before shortages became effective.

It would be an attempt at such a slaughter of women and children as would cause a helpless population to make the government surrender the rights, possessions and freedom of the country.

It was a most hideous form of attack and, said Mr. Churchill, the bill did not provide resistance to it.

Such an attack could not be met by passive defence, he observed, but only by well-directed counter-

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

Navy Island was a hundred years ago today the scene of as touching an illustration of wifely devotion as is contained in our history. When William Lyon Mackenzie left Toronto in such a hurry on December 7 his wife and family were left in Toronto. It is to be supposed that their home was closely watched, but I have not found any evidence that the officials interfered with Mrs. Mackenzie, though possibly a watch was kept upon her correspondence. How she received word that her husband had taken up his residence on Navy Island is not recorded; but she did, and then she made a most remarkable journey in the bitterest of Canadian weather to the Niagara frontier and across the river to Buffalo whence she proceeded to Navy Island. Lindsey, the official biographer of Mackenzie, thus tells this domestic drama of love, self-sacrifice and wifely devotion, in a few words:

"Mrs. Mackenzie was the only female who spent any length of time on Navy Island. She arrived there Dec. 29 a few hours before the destruction of the Caroline and remained nearly a fortnight with her husband, making flannel cartridge bags and inspiring with courage, by her entire freedom of fear, all with whom she conversed. At the end of about a fortnight ill-health forced her to leave. Mr. Mackenzie accompanied her to the house of Captain Appleby Buffalo, and while on his way was arrested for a breach of the neutrality laws." (This latter incident will be told of later.)

The night of Dec. 29 saw the beginning of the famous Drew expedition which ended in the capture and destruction of the Caroline. Most people put that date as Dec. 29, but while the first attack took place that night the vessel was not destroyed until after midnight, so I postpone the story of that event until Dec. 30.

December 29 must always be memorable to Mr. Mackenzie King, for it was on that date in 1921 that he was first sworn as prime minister of Canada. The mutability of human events is illustrated by the fact that out of its ministers eight have passed off the stage of human life. Messrs. Fielding, Charles Murphy, H. S. Beland, Hewitt Bostock, Jacques Bureau, J. A. Robb, W. C. Kennedy and Sir Lomer Gouin. In addition, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who was soon after elected Speaker of the House of Commons, has died after years of brilliant service to the state.

AN OPEN LETTER ON UNITY

Editor, Bulletin: The writer of this letter proposes to submit his views on this important question, so we will proceed by saying, "Where there is Unity, there is strength." We think that the different factions can come together if they lay down a proper standard to be adhered to, and if it is our purpose to propose such a standard.

In the first place, we will say that the different factions now in controversy on this subject are afraid they will lose their identity. One says, we will not be dictated to by the other, etc; so there must be provision made so as this will not occur. To my mind there is only one way that this can be brought about, namely—there must be no dictation or interference by the different factions regarding the choice of their candidates in the different constituencies, and to offset that we will offer a solution.

The executive of each constituency will meet and adjudicate on a choice as representative. They will have a printed circular before them, setting out their objective. Whoever their choice is must subscribe to same. They will then submit same to what we will call An Executive Council. The said Executive Council to be appointed by the different factions in the Province; one in Edmonton and one in Calgary. This Executive Council will be composed of three of the most outstanding men of the Province, three in Edmonton and three in Calgary. This will be done and agreed upon as already stated by the different factions seeking Unity.

If the Executive Council trkes exception to the party selected by the Executive in any constituency, they will refer the choice back to the constituency and ask them to submit another choice. The Executive Council will be supreme.

Now, do not conclude that my plan is of any consequence but your thoughts together and suggest something better, finding fault won't bring about Unity. Real honest consideration does. By the way—it was intimated to me on the street by a Doc Hard that this is very plan I am suggesting was proposed by some ancient legislature that was in power at one time. If that is true, we would like to be advised of it. One would conclude, if it is true, that this system was adopted if not put before the different factions now endeavoring to bring about Unity.

We are not appealing to any particular faction; we are appealing to all electors. Those who are not at present Government and those who were opposed to them. The public can be fooled sometimes, but not at all times.

This is the only plan that will put Unity on the map intelligently.

Now let us get together and decide this matter as it should be, without prejudice or ill will and if you have any suggestion make it, just as I have.

UNITY WITHOUT STRIFE.
Edmonton, Alta.

Bill Smith, a country shopkeeper, received a parcel one spook. They were sent immediately, and reached home before he did. When the boxes were delivered, Mrs. Smith, who was keeping the shop, uttered a scream, seized a hatchet, and began frantically to open the largest one.

"What's the matter, Sarah?" said one of the bystanders, who had watched her in amazement.

Pale and faint, Mrs. Smith pointed to an inscription on the box. I read:

"Bill inside."

FACE LIFTING FOR PRAIRIES IS FARM PLAN

Economic Survey In Conjunction With Soil Survey is Underway

By FRANK FLAHERTY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—Canada's most ambitious venture into the realm of economic planning is under way in Western Canada as part of a gener:l drive to alleviate agricultural distress and conquer the drought problem.

It is an economic survey being carried on in conjunction with the administration of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation act and is a joint endeavor on the part of the federal department of agriculture and the universities and governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The economic survey is a preparation for a general face-lifting operation for the drought area. It is designed to form the basis for a permanent land policy which will for all time prevent western agriculture being caught in the predicament it has been in for the past five years.

LANDS MAPPED

The survey proceeds on the principle that you can not tell whether land is good simply by taking a sample of the soil and analyzing it in a laboratory. Some years ago extensive soil surveys were made in Alberta and Saskatchewan and most of the farm lands were mapped and classified according to quality of soil.

Proceeding from that basis the economic survey takes into account the actual results obtained from farming. It is related to the soil survey and in some respects corrects and amplifies it.

The first report on the P. F. R. A. states: "Information regarding the economic returns of farms located on different soil types is essential to an appraisal of the efficiency of methods and practices adopted and the possibility of obtaining a living from farms located in such areas.

"Data are being secured on the size of holdings, land tenure, crop yields, livestock production, farm receipts and expenses, cropping practices, livestock carrying capacity, indebtedness, operator's history, settlement of the area and farm abandonment.

"When these data have been analyzed the information should be a guide to the future policy of land utilization in these areas. This study is the first of its kind in Canada.

AID FROM AIR

Each summer for the past three years young men from the universities and government offices have been travelling around the prairies asking questions of farmers and checking over records in municipal offices. From the farmers they learn of their success or failure and their methods of tillage, their crop yields, their livestock. From the municipal records they learn of debts, tax arrears and relief payments.

This summer a new agency was called into action on the survey—the Royal Canadian Air Force. The airmen are photographing the country. Photographs show the actual use of the land, the nature of the soil and the topography.

The ultimate object of the survey is to provide the basis of a plan for proper utilization of land. Grazing land, for instance, might provide a good crop under ideal conditions but year in and year out would keep the operator poor.

GUIDE PURCHASES

Such land, in the view of the agricultural economists, should be permanently retired from cultivation and put to its natural use. The surveys will tell any farmer considering land purchases what the possibilities are.

Even if no legal restriction is placed on land use knowledge of the real facts will tend to prevent tragic mistakes. A farmer will also know that if he is settling on marginal or fair wheat land he should have a large farm and, if possible, combine livestock with grain growing.

Already the surveys have been used to advantage as the Alberta government in revising assessments for taxation in certain municipalities has taken land classification into account in arriving at fair assessments.

Professor A. Stewart of the University of Alberta, another economist associated with the work, in discussing the survey said: "If the general problem can be stated in terms of returns, so also can a solution. Such a solution would provide, if possible, for the use of land, the investment of capital and the employment of labor in such a manner as to obtain returns adequate for maintenance and stability.

"Viewed in this way the immediate practical problem would appear to have two major aspects: (1) that of determining whether in the long run the area in question can be expected to provide for these conditions and, if so, under what form of organization; (2) the problem of recognizing the nature and extent of the adjustments necessary to effect the new basis of organization."

The succession of phenomenally dry years through which the area has just passed must be considered, in Mr. Stewart's opinion. One of the important things to be determined is how representative this period has been and the probability of a recurrence in the future. Land should not be condemned simply because it has failed to give farmers a living in two, three or five recent years.

The message said an ocean tug was coming from England to meet her and everything on board "was OK." Although the report did not specifically say so, it was believed here temporary repairs had been made.

RICH ORE AND RECORD SHAFT ARE REPORTED

HALIFAX, Dec. 29.—What was believed to be a record in shaft sinking and a "rich" ore strike at the Nova Scotia government's apprentice project at Lacey mine, Chester Basin, N.S., was announced Tuesday by Mines Minister Dwyer.

A crew of 18 apprentices under the supervision of shift bosses sank a shaft 26½ feet in one week. As far as officials could determine, this constituted a record with men working three shifts—six men and a shift boss, to a shift.

When a crosscut on the 200 foot level cut the apex of the anticline, a new vein of rich ore was found. Although no assay reports were available, mines department officials said ore "rich in gold" had been found.

POWER RETURNS ENDING TIE-UP FOR NINE HOURS

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 29—Electric power was restored to Buffalo last night, nine hours after a fire in a huge generating plant at mid-forenoon halted electric service to 100,000 homes in the city and suburbs.

During the intervening hours, before service was partly restored elevators filled with passengers stalled in downtown buildings, traffic lights failed, merchants displayed their wares by flashlight.

Many automobiles ran out of fuel because filling stations were unable to fill their gasoline tanks; one Buffalo newspaper suspended publication for hours and two radio stations were silent. Restaurant customers dined by candlelight.

Behavior Students Feel Celebration Should End

LONDON, Dec. 29—Adherents of the fad of organized mass observations have come to the conclusion it would be advisable to discontinue annual ceremonies at the national Shrine, the Cenotaph in Whitehall.

Object of the mass observation movement is to record the behavior of men, women and everyday activities and the report on impressions of Armistice Day has just been completed. Its major conclusions are:

"A widespread feeling the ceremonies are out of date and should be stopped.

"Roughly 80 per cent of the observers kept the silence, while 20 per cent went on with their work."

One observer records that while she was having a permanent wave the girl attendant didn't stop for the silence, remarking: "I simply haven't any use for this."

Several observers mentioned grins and laughter as a form of relief after the silence ended.

A young housewife wrote: "I like these 'national' days. They make a common bond between us so that we can spank to each other without constraint."

offensives against military targets.

"I believe," he continued, "there is no doubt that if one side in an equal war endeavors to cow or kill the civilian population and the other steadily attacks the military objectives, the victory, all other things being equal, will go to the side which avoids the horror of making war on the weak and helpless."

But we were not ready for this yet, he said, and meanwhile the vital factor would be a resisting power and a capacity for enduring punishment with fortitude.

THINGS are very different today in this tight little island than in pre-war times when Lord Fisher, having built a fleet of superdreadnaughts, told his fellow-countrymen they could now sleep soundly and safely o'nights.

Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd, undersecretary, home office, had no greater comfort to give than Mr. Churchill. Talking of high explosive bombs, he said it was impossible to provide protection against direct hits. They must rely on the policy of dispersal and the best practical form of dispersal was to advise people to stay in their own homes.

The local authorities would have to build public shelters for those whose homes were not suitable. Millions of sandbags would have to be provided for these and the cost would be ten million dollars. The government would help to defray the cost.

In short, Great Britain is getting ready to be gassed, burnt out and blasted out, according to the enemy's choice of bombs. To anyone with a little imagination Mr. Lloyd's detailed statement of what the government was doing to prepare for these contingencies, read in conjunction with present-day events in Spain and the Far East, was simply grizzly.

He talked not only of sandbags but of preliminary plans for the evacuation of masses of people from London, already in existence; of free respirators for everybody; of family apparatus at $7.50 a set; for dealing with incendiary bombs, and of 100,000 men, 60,000 police, and 10,000 doctors being already trained in anti-gas and general air-raid precautions.

Quite evidently, when it does come, it is going to be a lovely war.

THERE was enough material in the disclosures made during the debate to furnish a dozen "screamers" across front pages. But nobody is getting excited about it.

"If it's like to be, it's like to be," they say in Lancashire, and go on filling out football coupons. Further south the really serious question is what's wrong with the Arsenal, defeated in six successive league games.

The newspapers are more concerned about the squabble between the Government and the local authorities as to what proportion of the strange expenses involved is to be borne by each, than about the possible horrors the expense foreshadows.

On the whole, one is inclined to think that if any foreign power believes it can "panic" the population of this country by dropping bombs all over the place it is going to find itself grievously mistaken.

When the time comes, that is should it come there will be found a quiet determination to carry on though the earth rocks, and all the needed capacity for enduring punishment with fortitude.

RED SECRETARY STATES POLICE RAIDED HOUSES

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Stanley Ryerson, self-described secretary of the Quebec Communist Party told newspapermen Tuesday provincial police had raided his home and that of E. Dube, chairman of the provincial party, and seized quantities of literature.

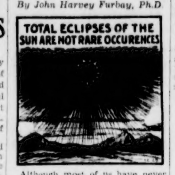

Ryerson said all his books and other literature had been taken away last Friday morning by three provincial officers who said the matter would be returned immediately officers had a chance to examine it for Communist propaganda.

"More than 40 books and 100 or more pamphlets and periodicals were confiscated at my place," said Ryerson, "together with a large collection of material relating to the 1837 rebellion in upper and lower Canada, used by me in preparing my recent book on that subject."

At provincial police headquarters officers declined to discuss the matter and would not even confirm the report of the raids.

Although most of us have never seen a total eclipse of the sun, and many of us will likely never see one, the truth is that they are not rare events on earth. In fact, a total eclipse of the sun takes place somewhere in the world, about every year and a half. The reason we don't see more of them is that we don't happen to be in the right part of the earth most of the time. A total eclipse only lasts a few moments, and is seen in only a small part of the world where the shadow falls. We cannot all be so lucky as the Connecticut Yankee.

Police Probing Fatal Shooting

Old Spirit Of School Days Is Recaptured Briefly As Former Normalites Meet

OLD friendships renewed, season's greetings exchanged . . . spirit of gaiety and good-will prevailed at the delightful Christmas dance of the Edmonton Normal School Alumni Association, making it one of the gayest of the season's parties. Taking place on Tuesday evening, the affair was held in the Normal school gymnasium.

From many towns and country points surrounding Alberta, Alumni students came to enjoy mixing with old school mates who have since travelled different ways. Decorations following the Christmas theme, streamers, soft glowing lights and many novelties, added to the gaiety, at the same time making the setting a very picturesque one.

Simplicity Is Secret Of The Smart Hostess

True hospitality is a gift that can be developed. You know how we all love visiting certain friends because they make us feel so welcome, while other social calls are more or less of a duty.

Have you ever tried to analyze what makes the difference? Into which group have your friends put your home? It is not a matter of costly furniture and extravagant cookery, fine linens or gleaming silver. Rather it is something within the hostess herself. Her welcome is sincere and genuine and the comfort of her guests is her first consideration.

Simple refreshments are always advised. An afternoon tea for a few friends need not be a cookery display. This would really be in bad taste. Sandwiches are always popular and buttered muffins or biscuits are really enough to complete the menu. However, if your sweet-tooth demands something more, try a few cookies or small cakes. These can be served more easily than cake as the cake usually requires an extra plate and possibly a fork.

MUFFIN RECIPE

Try this recipe for sliced apple muffins: 2 cups pastry flour, ½ cup sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg beaten, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup finely chopped raw apples.

Mix by the muffin method and add the chopped apples at the last. Bake in a moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes. This will make a dozen muffins.

I am particularly tea-minded this week, as we have just completed the serving of a big afternoon tea to more than 800 guests. One of the biggest problems was enough boiling water, but we managed with the aid of one range and several hot plates and many boilers and kettles. We made tea in teapots—had over 40 of them—and used the small individual tea-bags. We used three or four in a teapot and they were handy to empty out, so that everyone had fresh tea. I would recommend this method to anyone serving afternoon tea to a large group.

USEFUL SCALE

Here are some standard amounts for large quantity serving which you might find useful: 1 boiler of coffee serves from 125 to 150. One pound of tea serves 100. One pound of coffee serves 50. One pounds of cocoa serves 100. One pound lump sugar serves 100 people. One and one-half quarts cream serves 100 people for tea. Two and one-half quarts of cream serves 100 people for coffee. One standard loaf cuts 20 slices. One sandwich loaf cuts 60 slices. One sandwich loaf requires one-half pound of butter and three-quarter to one pound filling.

If you have a light green and white screen, and don't know what to do with it because your dining room and living room walls—have no fear—put it right in with the blue walls. It's being done.

Alice Hickey, W. S. Latta, Are Wed

Solemnized quietly in the home of the bride's parents, the recent wedding of Alice Berna Hickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hickey, and Walter Scott Latta, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Latta of Vancouver, was one of the most charming ceremonies of the season.

Rev. S. A. Carlson conducted the service.

FLORAL SATIN GOWN

Wearing a gown of filmy white net over prettily flowered satin, with silver slippers to match a touch of silver trimming, the bride made a lovely picture. Her veil cascaded from a wreath of orange blossoms, and in her arms she carried a bouquet of great shaggy chrysanthemums in tones of yellow.

Mr. Hickey gave his daughter in marriage.

Her sister's bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ellen Hickey, was becomingly frocked in peach-tinted taffeta, with which she wore a golden circlet on her head and golden slippers. Her flowers were mauve chrysanthemums. Mr. Carl Rudyk was best man.

Mrs. E. Simmons, sister of the bridegroom, played the Wedding March and accompanied Miss Daryl Latta at the piano when she sang sweetly "I Love You Truly."

SMALL RECEPTION

Members and intimate friends of the family were guests later at a delightfully arranged reception. Mrs. Barnes presided at the tea table and Miss Pearl Barnes and Miss Birkley assisted in the passing of refreshments.

the social round . . . . .

I GOT an electric train from Santa, and it's STREAMLINED—but daddy plays with it all the time" . . . Plaintive cry of our little brother, standing wide-eyed and quite adorable although quite pensive, in the door of our bed-room, woke us up on Christmas morning as he came to tell us the result of Santa's visit. Not only daddy, but uncles and numerous other interested parties were deeply engrossed in the mechanics of the shiny train, we discovered on entering the living-room. Pushed into a far corner was the little fellow of the family, eyes shining, small hands outstretched, eagerly longing to be able just once to push the switch, or wind the bell, or do something to make his own train go. Alas, it was not to be. The arrival of each new guest made his hopes dimmer and dimmer until finally, disappointment showing on his face, he disappeared into the kitchen. . . . Maybe he could help Mummy prepare the sauce for the plum pudding or watch the big turkey come out of the oven or something . . .

Just as remote since Christmas day have been the chances of running his own train for the fathers! Intrigued and fascinated by the electric train, Daddy quite monopolizes Santa's gift to his little son, who meanwhile has to be content with struggling around on big brother's skis, or playing with last year's sleigh.

Wondering why Daddy has to play with his train all the time, Jackie told us thoughtfully yesterday that "Maybe Santa should have brought Daddy that train." An hour or so later we found him busily engaged with pencil and paper and reading over his shoulder we saw the heading, "Dear Santa . . . A little early, but we imagined just what was in the letter.

BAWLF CENTRES MUCH ACTIVITY OVER HOLIDAYS

Christmas day in Bawlf was a gala occasion indeed and many were the attractive house parties made up for the day. With guests arriving from Edmonton or other points, or themselves planning to spend the day "out of town" the holiday week-end was a happy time indeed for residents.

Among the guests from Edmonton who spent the holiday in Bawlf were Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Gowan, Miss Kay Young and Miss Margaret Young of Edmonton, who with their sister Miss Norah Young visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young.

From Edmonton Miss Delia Brooks spent a few days with Mrs. Roy Brooks. Mr. Roy Brooks' vacation was in town for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Colter in Edmonton had as their guests on Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneider of Bawlf and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brady of Grande Prairie.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Law and family from Tofield, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Bremner of Macleod were guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. Carmichael on the holiday.

Guests at the K. G. Eggen home, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCoig of Sylvan Lake and Mr. Kenneth McCoig of Innisfail, visited at Christmas in Bawlf.

Going across to New Norway for the holiday, Mr. and Mrs F. F. Jensen and their daughter Lois Jensen visited in the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Olstad.

Mr. Wilford Wetterberg of Edmonton visited with Mr. S. T. Wetterberg at their home in Bawlf.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Skinner entertained Mr. and Mrs. Alva Skinner and their son, Rodney Skinner of Ledue on the holiday, and Mr. and Mrs John Belzer were host and hostess to Mr. and Mrs. David Sabbe and their daughters at the week-end.

C.S.A. PARTY WILL MARK YEAR'S END

Scene far removed from the banana-like order of the day will be presented in the parliament buildings on New Year's Eve. Halls which usually reverberate with the sounds of parliamentary debate will be filled with music, laughter, and the swish of silks and satins. For members of the Civil Service Association Branch No. 2 have arranged a hilarious farewell party for 1937, to take place in the parliament buildings on Friday evening.

Mr. F. J. Fitzpatrick and Mr. G. Blais are co-opied with last minute details of arrangement for the affair which promises to be one of the gayest of the week-end.

Carols Echo Ancient Story Of Christmas

Lovely old carols of Christmas time, retelling in musical language the story of the first Christmas day and expressing the legends that have gathered around the celebration of the day since its inception more than nineteen hundred years ago, formed the theme of a most interesting meeting of the Harpsichord Club at the home of Miss Marjorie Willis one evening recently.

Description of carols, their musical composition, background and origins, was the subject of the paper Miss Jessie Corlett gave.

In illustration, many of the best known carols were sung during the evening. "The First Noel" was sung by all the members present, and later a Polish carol was sung by Dr. Dora Newson, Jessie Corlett, Winnifred Audley, and Marjorie Willis. Mrs. Mary Spratt sang the lovely "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Favorite of many—"Good King Wenceslas"—was sung with all joining in the singing of the chorus. Dr. Dora Newson, Winnifred Audley, Jessie Corlett and Marjorie Willis sang again and took for their piece, "Nazareth."

Miss Leona Huffmann played during the program several violin solos, "Adoration", by Felix Borowski, and "Air from Concerto No. 38" by Goldomork.

"O Come All Ye Faithful" was the last song on the program.

Accompanists were Miss Margaret Allan, and Miss Blanche Thornton.

Mrs. Muttart arranged a number of musical contests which were arranged late in the evening.

Members present were: Miss King, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Muttart, Mrs. Spratt, Miss May Keeler, Miss Bessie Vickers, Miss Leona Huffmann, Mrs. Fielhaber, Dr. Dora Newson, Miss Blanche Thornton, Miss Margaret McClennan, Miss Winnifred Audley, Miss Jessie Corlett and Miss Margaret Allan.

MRS. NITHSDALE NAMED HEAD OF B.E.S. LEAGUE

LLOYDMINSTER, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Wilford Nithsdale was elected to the presidency of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Branch of the British Empire Service League at a recent meeting.

Named honorary president of the organization was Mrs. F. S. Day, while others serving on the executive for 1938 will be Mrs. C. Barstow, first vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Deane, second vice-president; Mrs. J. Hepburn, secretary; Mrs. W. B. Shuffle-botham, treasurer; Mrs. J. Cornish, warden and standard bearer.

In activities and membership a very successful year was reported by retiring officers, several new members having joined.

Grey Owl Is Received At Royal Palace

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Grey Owl, Canadian Indian naturalist who was "a poor frightened savage" when he first appeared in London on the stage with Buffalo Bill, returned from the Empire's capital today full of "big talk" about his reception at Buckingham Palace by "The Great White Father."

"I told the King what I was doing toward conservation of his animal subjects," the Indian told newspapermen as he arrived from London in the liner Berengaria, resplendent in beaded buckskins and with a single eagle plume in his black braids. "His Majesty said he was all for it."

NOT VERY PLEASED

However, the "friend of the beaver people"—people because Grey Owl considers Canada's industrious little animal emblem the most human denizens of the wilds—was not so pleased with some of the "Great White Father's" white subjects.

He referred feelingly to the refusal of the British Broadcasting Corporation to let him deliver a lecture to children last week because he planned to speak against blood sports such as fox-hunting. The BBC ruled out that part of the lecture as controversial.

"It seemed to me," the naturalist said, "that the B.B.C. was putting the opinion of a minority over the welfare of children. I do not consider the blood sports human, and in honesty to myself I insisted that no children not to engage in such sports be included in the lecture."

BOTH ADAMANT

The B.B.C. was adamant. So was Grey Owl. He packed his bags and sailed for a three-month lecture tour of the United States. With him came his pretty, dark-haired wife of 20, Silver Moon or Washe-Ski-Tibicun.

"Queen Elizabeth and the princesses, Margaret and Elizabeth, said they would like to come back with us to Beaver Lodge, north of Prince Albert," said Silver Moon. "The princesses are sweet children."

The Canadian north country, said Wa-Sha-Quon-Asin (Grey Owl's Indian name), is the Dominion's greatest asset. To keep it as such, he believes its wild life should be maintained and that the Indians should be given the job of doing it.

"If that were done, the Indian could hold up his head as a solid, constructive citizen of the Dominion."

HAS LEARNED A LOT

In 1906 Grey Owl went to London as "a savage Apache warrior" in Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Since then he has come a long way. He has learned his perfect English. He has become the "friend of the beaver people."

"I started as a poor frightened savage on a stage in a theatre in London," said Grey Owl. "and I ended up talking to King George in Buckingham Palace. But I want to go back to Saskatchewan's north country. We want to see our five-year-old daughter, Shirley Dawn, and our two best friends—Jelly Roll and Raw-hide, the beaver, who always stay home."

SCOTTISH PIPES WILL USHER IN THE NEW YEAR

Welcoming in the New Year with pipe, song and dance in the traditional manner of their country, members of the Edmonton Scottish Society have already completed plans for their Grand Hogmanay Banquet and Dance to be held on Friday evening, December 31, in the I.O.O.F. hall in 103 street.

Banquet will be served at eight o'clock in the evening, and arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. J. Malcolm and her committee.

Dancing will follow into the morning hours of New Year's Day.

Your Children

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Twins are always interesting. But to me they offer something more than sentiment, as I am curious about the vague spiritual things that defy analysis.

Are twins more devoted to each other than the ordinary brother? How do they be the same hereditary traits? Does one develop faster than the other mentally or emotionally?

Possibly the Dionne wonders have contributed more than any other matched children in the world to the queries of science about heredity.

Here are five little girls, who look alike and have had identical experience. Yet from the start they showed diverse personality.

One is shy, the introvert: another is full of ideas; another small girl is showing evidences of leadership. If heredity were not paramount why would they differ in make-up?

This week I talked to the mother of twin boys, 12 years old. I asked if there was a difference in disposition. She said yes, there was, that Thomas was more sensitive than Timothy. Or maybe the other way around. "But," she added, "there is a peculiar affinity between the two of them. An allegiance and loyalty as genuine that I don't take any credit for their training, although our home is always happy and I have never spoken a harsh word to them in their lives."

It seems that their marks were almost always identical in school. A little difference in one month in favor of Thomas, perhaps, and the next month in favor of Timothy. But their averages were almost always close.

Last month it was Thomas' turn, but now the difference in grades was three per cent. It put Thomas on the honor list and left his twin out. Home rushed Tim all out of breath to tell the good news. He was so happy for his brother that he was spilling it all over the place. He said, "Mom, we kids are going to celebrate. We're all going over to Mack's house and take things to eat. Aren't you proud of Tom?"

She said that she could hardly speak for pride, not only in her victorious son, but in this generous brother who put his partner's success above his own defeat.

Then I know two other twins who interest me. They not only speak a language from babyhood, that no one else could understand, but when one got sick the other was ill too. The boy went to have his tonsils out, and at the moment he was getting the anaesthetic his twin sister went into a deep sleep from which she could not be roused. Afterward when he was a little ill as the either was wearing off, his sister registered the identical symptoms.

This has nothing to do with heredity, of course, but it goes to show either that children born together have some unidentified tie, or that children who closely approximate in age are more in sympathy with their kind. Perhaps families with not too much difference between ages are closer than those with a greater span between.

Every Day Party Day At A Dressing Table

By ALICIA HART

Your daily bath, the regularity with which you use deodorants and depilatories and the way you smile, walk, stand and hold your head are every bit as important to the finished picture of a lovelier you as your cosmetics and clothes.

It is a mistake to rely entirely on makeup and clothes to achieve beauty and glamor. Of what importance will a handsome dress be if you carry your head awkwardly, stand in a way that is exaggerated hollow in your back? Or who will notice, or care if they do, that your cosmetics are perfectly blended if you are not meticulously clean, fragrantly lovely?

Get into the habit of grooming yourself as carefully each and every morning as you do when you are going out to a formal party. The reason women generally look prettier in evening gowns than in street clothes is because they spend more time getting ready for a party.

Adequate grooming routines require less time than the majority of girls think. Many, particularly business women, have learned to take their morning showers quickly, reserving long, leisurely sessions in a tub of warm water for times when speed isn't important. They apply an anti-perspirant after the shower, let it dry while making up face and combing hair, then rinse under arms before dressing.

If you have time for little else besides a shower and a careful makeup job in the morning, keeping all of your clothes in order all of the time is important. If stepping to give a dress a thorough brushing means that you won't have time to apply lipstick correctly, then brush the dress carefully when you take it off at night and give it a few quick whisks in the morning. The same applies to shoes. Brush suede shoes or wipe leather ones the moment you take them off. This way, the morning will be much less hectic and your chances of being lovely and neat from head to foot at all times infinitely increased.

Lovely Doris Donaldson has not only an interesting face but a beautiful one. Her large blue eyes and soft brown hair lend a certain glamor to her appearance that puts her in great demand as a model. Walter Thornton finds her so busy she has difficulty in finding enough free hours to attend dramatic school. Formerly from Philadelphia, Miss Donaldson now lives in New York. She is very small, five feet without shoes, and is called Pee Wee.

According To Culbertson

By ELY CULBERTSON

It is one thing to write a text book and quite another to contrive to have it read properly. At least fifty contestants in the recent national examination wrote letters, ranging from reproachful to denunciatory, pointing out that my answer to question No. 40 did not agree with the specific instructions given on page 227 of my Gold Book. Question No. 40 was:

You are South, and vulnerable. Opponents are not vulnerable. West, your lefthand opponent, deals and the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	?

You hold:

♠AKJ985 ♥8 ♦AJ832 ♣64

What call do you make?

The answer was that you should bid two spades. One indignant woman wrote: "Your Gold Book, page 227, says 'A jump overcall of two in a suit (as two spades over an opponent's bid of one heart) shows a hand containing three and one half honor tricks, or slightly more with (a) two five card suits, or (b) one strong six card suit, or (c) eight winners.' I couldn't find these requirements in the hand given in question No. 40 and so had to take a two point demerit. A fine business!"

The other letters were in the same vein. I must say that I was astonished by these objections. Obviously, the disgruntled parties had confused two questions that do not bear even a faint resemblance to each other. Moreover, they had gotten hold of the wrong page, in fact, the wrong chapter in the Gold Book!

In Question No. 40, South's problem is not one of overcrowding in the accepted bridge sense of the word, but a problem of reopening the bidding. They should have referred to page 216, on which a strong suit and a fourth hand defender should reopen the bidding with a jump overcall when holding a strong suit and about two and one-half honor tricks! I feel somewhat aggrieved that the readers of my books do so much "shopping."

LEADING AGAINST SLAMS

2 clubs	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass

The same contract was reached at the two tables of the team-of-four match. In one room, West opened the spade six, and the contract became a laydown. In the other room West started with a deep huddle while he considered all the implications of the bidding. One thing appeared fairly certain, and that was that North and South had a combined spade length of not over five cards. This marked East with at least six spades. But East had not thought enough of his spade suit to make a nonjurisdictable overcall! Hence, it was very unlikely that he held a high spade honor. On the sound reasoning West decided against a spade opening in favor of trying for a club ruff, by leading out ace and one other club. The six card suit in the opponent was somewhat disappointing to West but, when his partner's king dropped, the defense still was worked out satisfactorily.

In the one hope that East had the jack of diamonds and could force declarer's ace, West continued clubs. East co-operated nobly by putting up his diamond jack and, after that, West was in the comfortable possession of a trump trick as the setting trick.

DOROTHY DIX Says

DEAR MISS DIX—I think that a lot of the trouble in family life comes from parents not teaching their children responsibility in the home and about how to handle money. My husband was brought up to think that a man was a little tin god in the house; that his mother and sister had to wait on him, that he had a right to spend all that he made on himself and let his wife and children get food and clothes and shelter the best they could. I am bringing up my children differently. My two girls are only 11 and 12, but they know what every cent that comes in goes for and why they can't have everything they want. When they are through school and have jobs they are going to have to pay their board at home just as they would anywhere else. Why not pay at home and give me a rest and a chance to save something toward the time when I can no longer work? I am bringing up my boy to help with the housework. Is there any reason why a boy shouldn't take his turn at the dishpan or ironing board? It makes me mad to see boys play while their sisters work.

MRS. R. T. M.

Answer:

Three cheers for you! Lucky will be the men who get your girls for wives and the girl who marries your boy! You are training them to be the sort of wives and husbands that every mother prays that her children will get instead of the good-for-nothing slackers that she is going to foist on some other mother's children for mates.

You are a wise mother to bring up your children to have a partnership in the home and to feel their responsibility in making it a success. That will do more than any other one thing to bind them to their own hearthstone because that will give them an active part in maintaining and keeping the fire burning upon it.

Most mothers are so anxious to save their children from any hardships that they virtually shut them out of any part in the home—always. Mother toils overtime so her children can play. She goes shabby so that they may have finery. She stays up nights washing and darning so the boys will have clean shirts and the girls fresh dresses to wear. The result is that the children have no particular interest in the home and no affection for it because they have not helped build it, nor have they any responsibility for it.

Nor have they the respect for their mother that they would have had if, instead of being a slave, she had just been the head of their little group, and each of them had his or her part in making the home a success and their pride in doing the work, without which all would have suffered.

You are a wise mother to teach children the value of money and what everything costs because, for one thing, if children know that the reason they cannot have things is because there is no money to pay for them they do not feel the resentment they would when they think that their parents are just mean in denying them their hearts' desire.

The knowledge of how to spend money instead of waste it will be of inestimable value to your sons and daughters as long as they live. Thrift is the foundation stone of every fortune. It is not what we make, but what we save, that makes us able to hold up our heads and be independent and lay up something for our old age. I agree with you that there is no reason for boys not to have their chores about the house. There is no sex work these days when machinery does the most of it, heading a trust or running an airplane and men's work is designing clothes and being chefs.

If every mother taught her daughter how to spend her husband's money when she got married and every boy how to cook and lend a hand with the baby when he got married, the domestic millennium would have arrived.

Two Star Roles To Cast Some Ham In

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Ham is to some men what locusts and honey are to prophets. Every so often everyone gets a yen for a bit of ham that simply must be satisfied. So look up a few new ham recipes and you'll never let your menfolk down.

HAM BUTT WITH SOUR CREAM

(4 to 6 servings)

Two pounds smoked ham butt, ½ cup clear vegetable stock, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon heavy molasses, 1 cup sour cream.

Soak ham butt in cold water for 2 hours. Dry carefully, and place in large baking dish. Mix vegetable stock, vinegar and molasses thoroughly, then pour over the meat in the baking dish. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1¾ hours, basting with the molasses mixture every one-half hour. When ham butt is done, remove and slowly add sour cream to liquid. Stir over a low fire until blended, about 2 minutes. Then pour over the cooked ham butt. A roaming appetite will settle down to do full justice to a ham cooked with this gypsy recipe.

GYPSY HAM

(4 to 6 servings)

One and one-half pounds ham steak, ¾ inch thick, 1 No. 3 can tomatoes, 1 teaspoon broken bay leaves finely crushed, 1 teaspoon salt, little black pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup brown sugar, 2 small white onions.

In a saucepan, combine tomato, bay leaves, seasoning and butter. Break up the tomato pulp with a fork. Place the ham in hot, heavy skillet and sear on both sides. Cover with brown sugar and spices finely sliced. Pour a little of the tomato juice over the ham, but just enough to moisten the sugar. Pour the remaining tomato around the ham, but not over it. Cover and bake in moderate oven, 1350 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Baste only once. Remove ham to platter, boil the sauce quickly for 5 minutes to cook down a bit, and pour over the meat. Squeals of delight from the hungry family.

Tomorrow's Menu

LUNCHEON: Cheese souffle, whole-meal toast, plum tartlets, tea, milk.

Bulletin Patterns

By Anne Adams

Here's just the thing for Miss 8-to-16 . . . a very smartly tailored ensemble consisting of a dress and either a belted or three-quarter free swinging coat. There are all sorts of slimming fabric combinations you can use to create new and striking effects. For instance, you could make the dress solid color with a plaid collar then make the coat of the same plaid . . . wear the dress collar on the outside . . . there's no collar on the coat. You'll be amazed to discover how quickly and easily this ensemble goes together . . . just nine easy-to-follow pattern pieces. Grand for wear under a coat now and without a coat when Spring comes. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Pattern 4499 is available in girls' sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 takes 3¼ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send 20 cents in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

Sailor Drowns

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A sailor was drowned last night when the 489-ton Norwegian freighter Inna, anchored at Poole harbor on the English channel, sank following an explosion.

Nipponese Make Triumphant Entry Into Tsinan Today

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28.—The Japanese army made its triumphant entry into Tsinan today while advance columns pushed eastward toward Tsingtao and southward toward Hsuchow seeking to complete the conquest of China's richest coastal provinces.

Occupation of Hsuchow, terminus of the Lunghai railway, will give the conquerors control over all the principal railroads except the Canton-Hankiow line. From the great wall to Shanghai Japan will be paramount.

Three Jap College Boys Die Freezing

OSAKA, Japan, Dec. 28—Three college students were found frozen to death today and eight others were missing in the "Japanese Alps" where they had gone skiing. A heavy avalanche swept down mount Kengatake upon the party yesterday.

What To Do

Should a wife applaud when her husband has made a speech or sung at a banquet or formal dinner, or should she remain silent? Thank you for an answer through your column.

MRS. X. Y. Z.

Answer—There is no reason why you shouldn't do just what you would do if the performance were by any other person. You shouldn't lead a clique, of course, and be the most enthusiastic applauder in the audience, but you certainly would wish to give some visible sign of praise. You don't want to be too demonstrative, naturally, because then you raise the suspicion that it is the relationship and not the performance that is dictating your clapping. On the other hand, to be so modest as not to applaud when there is general approval by every one else would certainly make your silence most conspicuous.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home

Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes. Money refunded if it gives you the results you desire.

Plane Freight Gets Greatest Use In Canada

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Canada now leads the world in the transport of freight by air, according to latest figures from Ottawa.

Operating chiefly in the mining areas, Canadian lines last year transported 22,947,000 pounds of freight, consisting largely of machinery, fuel oil and supplies, compared with slightly more than 2,300,000 pounds in 1931.

Although the volume of air mail carried under contract in 1936, which was 1,107,000 pounds, was slightly under the 1935 figure, it was two and a half times larger than air mail carried in 1931.

Total commercial mileage flown in Canada last year was 7,101,401 miles, and passengers carried numbered 109,723; gross operating revenues totalled $2,501,242 and operating expenses $2,390,019, according to the report.

Found Slain

Thirty minutes after he left the village of Pickering, Ont. (near Toronto), where he had been shopping, the body of Mike Sheveliuk, Ukrainian caretaker of a nearby Jewish children's camp, was found almost decapitated by an axe or large knife, beside the highway. Police started a manhunt that ranged as far as the United States border in an effort to locate the killer or killers. Sheveliuk (shown above), a physically powerful man, was unmarried and had no known enemies.

FORMATION OF NEW OIL FIRM IS CONSIDERED

CALGARY, Dec. 29.—The Calgary Herald published the following Tuesday: "Formation of a large Turner Valley oil company in which the Firestone, Prairie, Monarch and Foundation producing companies would participate is under consideration.

"The company which is in process of incorporation, will be known as the Mission Oil Company of Canada, Limited. It will have control of 5,000 acres of oil lands. The company is to be capitalized at 5,000,000 shares."

Under the plan, the Herald said, the Anglo-Canadian Holding and Development Company would hold one-third interest in the new company and the four Anglo-Canadian associate companies — Firestone, Prairie, Monarch and Foundation—one-sixth interest each. Shareholders will be asked to approve the arrangement here January 15.

160 ATTENDING ALBERTA RALLY OF UKRAINIANS

Labor-Farmer Organizations Convention Underway In Edmonton

Attended by 115 official and 45 fraternal delegates, the fifteenth annual provincial convention of Ukrainian Labor-Farmer organizations which opened in the Memorial Hall Sunday night, will continue till Thursday evening.

Presided over by William Halina delegates to the convention were welcomed Sunday by Harold Gerry, representing the League for Peace and Democracy; Joe McKenzie, the Two Plus Two Youth club; Mr. Huberewich, the Russian club; Mr. Kiforuk, farming organization affiliated with the association, and Mrs. Wynohradowa and Mr. Shatulsky, who brought greetings from the central body of the association at Winnipeg.

PLIGHT OF COMPATRIOTS

Monday morning the sixth convention of the association for the aid of "the liberation movement in the Ukrainian Ukraine" began with a report by Mr. Radomsky and an address by Mr. Shatulsky on the political and economic condition of the Ukrainians of Europe. Mr. Ursuliak spoke on the plight of his compatriots in the province of Bokovina, now under Rumania.

Jack King brought greetings from the League for Peace and Democracy and William Irwin, provincial president of the C.C.F., also addressed the meeting.

Speakers at the eighth provincial convention of the women's section which opened Tuesday morning heard speeches by Mrs. A. Mokry, Mrs. M. Wynohradowa, and Miss J. Magera, of the University of Alberta.

DR. McNALLY SPEAKS

At the afternoon session, Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of education, discussed the need of enlisting the interest of parents in educational work, and F. T. Cook, of the department of health, spoke on "Health and Hygiene."

At the Wednesday morning meeting of the organization speeches were delivered by S. Olekey, provincial secretary, Mr. Davidiuk, William Halin and Mr. Shatulsky.

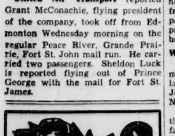

Farm problems will be discussed by R. Henning and J. Bentley representing the U.F.A. on Wednesday evening, and by Mr. Pidruchny Thursday afternoon. C. E. Christensen, co-operative of the Alberta section of the Co-operative Union of Canada, addressed the convention Wednesday afternoon.

BANQUET THURSDAY

Following addresses Thursday by Mr. Kostash, W. Halina and L. Anderson, the convention will conclude with a banquet at the Shasta Thursday night.

A two-day session of the Alberta convention of the Canadian Ukrainian Youth Federation will open Friday morning.

United Air Transport reported Grant McConachie, flying president of the company, took off from Edmonton Wednesday morning on the regular Peace River, Grande Prairie, Fort St. John mail run. He carried two passengers. Sheldon Luck is reported flying out of Prince George with the mail for Fort St. James.

ALBERTA BUYS LIVESTOCK FOR FARM AT OLDS

Two Shorthorn Cows and Yearling Bull Purchased In Province

Recognizing the importance of having provincial farms stocked with outstanding livestock, tree from disease, Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, on Wednesday announced purchase by the department of two Shorthorn cows with calves at foot and one summer yearling bull, both purchased from Claude Gallinger of Tofield and to be kept at the Olds School, where they may be seen.

"This is just a start," said the minister. "We hope to stock all the provincial farms with outstanding stock.

"But it is not my intention to go outside Alberta and pay exhorbitant prices for livestock, as we have good foundation stock in Alberta, in horses, cattle, sheep and swine.

"It is not my intention of putting high-priced animals on provincial farms at the expense of the taxpayers because I want to put the provincial farms on a paying basis."

WINNINGS OF ANIMALS

Winnings of the purchased animals are as follow: Red cow, Village Maid the 60th, five years old. Junior Champion in June 1933 at Nebraska state fair.

Roan cow, Good News, stood third in strong large class at same fair. These two cows were bred by D. C. Schellengerger, former governor of Nebraska and were purchased by Claude Gallinger in June, 1933.

Good News is the mother of the bull that stood fourth in his class at the 1937 Toronto Royal Winter Fair and which was sired by Lord Roth. The summer yearling bull, sired by Lord Roth, stood second in his class at the Royal Winter Fair and is a grandson of an imported cow bred by Alexander and Addie in Scotland.

Dismissal Of Damage Action Being Appealed

Contending that His Honor Judge Crawford erred when he held that William G. Hunter, South Edmonton, had not kept his fences in repair and that it was his legal duty to do so, an appeal has been taken by Mr. Hunter against judgment dismissing his action against Adolph Buse, South Edmonton, seeking damages for trespass of cattle owned by Mr. Buse.

It was also contended that the trial judge erred in holding that the plaintiff, Mr. Hunter, was compelled by statute to erect and maintain a legal fence around his property within the city limits, despite the fact that the city's bylaws prevented such fences being erected in the city.

The appeal will be heard at the next sittings of the appeal court here which opens on January 18.

1937 SURPLUS OF $1,899.39 BY EXHIBITION

Annual Meeting Of Association Held In Council Chamber Wednesday

The Edmonton Exhibition Association, Limited had a surplus for 1937 of $1,899.39, P. W. Abbott, K.C., managing director, told the annual directors' meeting of the organization Wednesday afternoon in submitting his yearly financial report.

The meeting, held in the council chamber in the Civic Block, was presided over by G. R. Ball, association president.

SUMMER FAIR PROFIT

Profit on the 1937 summer exhibition was $22,767.73, despite a record rainfall which drenched the city for three days and thinned out attendances at the fair, Mr. Abbott reported.

Surplus of the organization as at October 31, 1936, was $31,906.18, making a net surplus for 1937 of $33,805.57, when this year's profit is added, the official continued.

Loss on the 1937 fall show, Mr. Abbott said, was $175.98, with the losses on the 1937 poultry show and 1937 spring show being $79.74 and $190.23 respectively.

ADMINISTRATION COST

Cost of the administration in 1937 was $12,564.76, the sum of $120.63 was devoted to interest and exchange and the large figure of $336.96 put down on behalf of depreciation, together with $100 being assigned as provision for bad debts, Mr. Abbott indicated.

The pari-mutuel operating account came to $30,376.50, from which h-d be deducted the government tax of $13,286.70, leaving a profit of $17,089.80. Revenue for 1936 was $16,172.85.

Paddock ticket sales amounted to $462, and revenue derived from sale of race programs was $226.36.

The Inquiring Reporter

What do you think of the new idea of entertaining your guests by hiring a street car and taking them for a long ride around the city after dinner?

The latest society fad in Copenhagen is just this. A host or hostess, after dinner hires a street car and the whole company goes for a long ride around the city, at a cost of about $8 an hour.

The Inquiring Reporter thought this plan had more than a few possibilities and here are some answers to the question he popped.

MIKE CUTCHER, sports promoter: Sure I think it's a grand idea and specially if the city gets the money. It's something like the old sleigh ride only far more comfortable. No reason in the world why this shouldn't be developed into a popular pastime.

FLORA WEBSTER, stenographer: Well, it has possibilities all right. May not be as romantic as the old fashioned sleigh ride with its jingling bells or, the thrilling tobogganing party, but times change and so do people. The street car party at least would be a novelty and as we all have changed our ideas on matters of entertainment, I am in favor of trying this plan anyhow.

TOMMY BLACKBURN, clerk: Nix on the car ride. I get enough of the cars going to and from work. When I go to a party I want something different and a street car just doesn't provide that something. However, as the saying goes, "the time and place do not count, it's the one who is there," so given the right girl, maybe even a street car ride would fill a long felt want.

* * *

THE BULLETIN SOCIETY EDITOR: First of all they would have to adopt the city council suggestion of renovating the system. Also I think it would be helpful under such circumstances if they would have "driverless" street cars—it would be such fun. In addition, after a good dinner I always feel sleepy and a ride on the street car usually lulls me into a good snooze, so all in all, I think the idea is perfectly duckywucky.

THOMAS FERRIER, superintendent of the street railway system: As in a good many other things Edmonton leads the way. This idea was quite popular here "in the good old days." The whole thing has possibilities, although in these days of great comfort and convenience people seem to like to ride on rubber tires. I think if we had more buses we would have greater calls for this means of entertainment and as an indication of this I might mention that we had two calls for buses on Thursday night.

Father Of City Merchant Dies

Word has been received in Edmonton of the death in Montreal on Tuesday of Dr. Tancrede Charles Gaboury, 86, who succumbed to pneumonia after an illness of only a few days.

First French-Canadian physician to establish in Pontiac county, he practised in that Ottawa river valley district for nearly 50 years.

After serving as mayor of Bryson, Que., for five years, he was elected to the provincial house in 1908.

FORTY-NINERS ANNUAL RALLY HERE JAN. 8TH

Large Turnout of Edmonton Regiment Members Expected to Attend

More than 200 members of the 49th Battalion of the Edmonton Regiment are expected to congregate at the Macdonald hotel on Saturday, Jan. 8 for the annual reunion of the 49th Bn. Association, the organization which keeps the bonds together, those men who fought with this famous regiment in France and Flanders during the Great War.

Also invited to the reunion are all former members of those other illustrious regiments that, with the 49th formed the famous "Silver Seventh" Brigade of the 3rd Division, namely the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Princess Pat's Canadian Light Infantry and the 42nd Royal Highlanders of Canada.

TURKEY DINNER

The reunion, beginning with a turkey dinner, will end with entertainment for which these gatherings are famous.

The regimental band will play in the lodge room at 7 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. and then will lead the former warriors into the ballroom in single file, the skirl of the regimental march, "Bonnie Dundee."

REGIMENT BIRTHDAY

Each year the reunion is held on the Saturday nearest to Jan. 4, which is the birthday of the regiment, as it, on Jan. 4, 1916, that recruiting commenced and was finished within a few days.

FLOEN CHOSEN HEAD OF AMPS

H. E. Floen was elected president of the Edmonton branch of the Amputation Association of the Great War at the annual meeting recently. Other officers elected were: first vice-president, W. Howard; second vice-president, L. Smith; secretary-treasurer, G. F. Hedlund; executive, Holdsworth, C. G. Flavin, C. Curtis, H. E. Pauls, C. H. Vaughan and L. S. Hitchcock.

Winners of prizes in the annual Christmas draw were: first prize, F. T. Smith, second prize, Dot. Taylor; third prize, C. H. Vaughan; consolation prizes, H. E. Tooke, W. Curtis, G. E. Schell, P. Gwen, L. S Hitchcock, A. Butt and F. C. Young.

Police Court

Appearing for sentence on 25 charges of obtaining money by fraud by means of worthless cheques, Sydney Cook was sentenced to serve five months with hard labor in Fort Saskatchewan jail when he appeared in police court Wednesday before Magistrate A. H. Gibson. His plea to be allowed to go back to Winnipeg was dismissed when the cadi decided "There has been too much of this sort of thing for me to pass it over lightly."

Fred Demchuk, who pleaded guilty to the theft of 10 chickens and two ducks, which he claimed were to have supplied a Christmas dinner for his wife and three children, was sentenced to serve four months with hard labor in Fort Saskatchewan jail.

Pete Cherniwchan appeared to answer the charge of manslaughter preferred against him as a result of an auto accident on Nov. 4 in which he and his cousin, Metro Cherniwchan, were injured.

Metro subsequently died, allegedly of injuries received in the accident. Pete is alleged to have been the driver of the car.

Right for preliminary hearing of the charge were waived when Cherniwchan's counsel M. I. Friedman, agreed with C. F. Becker's suggestion that evidence taken at the inquest be used as a preliminary. He was remanded for trial until late in January. He was released on bail of $5,000.

James Fleming was convicted of a breach of the juvenile delinquents act. He gave evidence in his own behalf. When he had finished his story the cadi remarked, "I think you show an indifference to the consequences of your act and a callousness to the fate of others. You must learn to take the trouble you are in. I sentence you to five months with hard labor in Fort Saskatchewan jail." Fleming admitted that he had once served a term for bigamy.

John Gakas, convicted of being an habitual vagrant in addition to arm was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs. The firearm, a revolver which Gakas said had been given to him as security for a five dollar loan, was ordered confiscated.

Sam Gregonet pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop behind a street car which had stopped to pick up and discharge passengers. He was fined $2 and costs.

William K. Grant pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to register a transfer of motor car licenses and was fined $1 without costs.

Gesture Is Made By Union Official To Settle Shifts

Proposal is Made to Give Junior Motormen One Month Out of Four on Day Side—Council Defers Action

Senior street railway motormen are prepared to share day work with junior motormen to the extent of three months of day work a year for junior employees, William B. Quinn, president of the senior motormen's union, informed city council Tuesday night following a meeting of the union.

The months of day work for junior motormen proposed by senior employees are February, June and October.

NEW AGREEMENTS

Recommendation by Local 569 (the senior men's union) that junior operators be given three months' day work in 12, was made in an effort to arrive at an amicable settlement of the long-standing dispute between the union and Local 1, representing the junior men, over the question of shifts.

Up until last year senior men had the right to all the day work, owing to seniority privileges, the junior employees handling the night work. Acting on the appeal of junior men for a share of day work, the 1936 council ordered that these operators be given some day work. In effect, this new arrangement gave this class of employees approximately four months' day work in the year.

BOARD RULING

Objecting to such a move as being an intervention of their seniority rights, the older employees in the city council that seniority rights be restored and that junior operators be given three months' day work in the year.

City council recently adopted that clause of the board's recommendation covering restoration of full seniority rights in the street railway service on the understanding that the senior men would give a share of day work to junior employees.

At Tuesday's council meeting President Quinn, of Local 569, said that with the restoration of full seniority rights senior men were now prepared to recommend that the other operators in the service be given day work for three months of the year, as proposed by the board. Local 569 proposed that February, June and October be fixed as these months, he said.

EXISTING PACT

Another confusing point in the latest issue, which was discussed Tuesday by commissioners, who explained that while council had ordered restoration of full seniority to senior motormen effective Sunday, December 26, the agreement with the junior men which gave them approximately four months' day work did not expire until February 1938.

On the understanding there was the possibility of an amicable settlement being reached between senior and junior motormen over the question of distribution of shifts, council passed a motion by Ald. J. E. Ogilvie to the following effect:

That commissioners inform Local No. 1 (junior motormen's union) that the city desired to amicably terminate the existing agreement, and that if this could not be done, that Local No. 1 be informed that the city desired to insert a clause in the present agreement providing for the termination of the agreement by either party on one month's notice.

In making his representations to council, Delegate Quinn said the senior motormen's union had kept faith with city council and the conciliation board by proposing three months' day work for junior employees. There was no necessity for two unions in the street railway department, he held.

Delegate Quinn also thanked the mayor and commissioners for their assistance during the course of negotiations.

Father Jennings Is Named Rector Local Cathedral

Honoring his long service to the church, Rev. Father E. Q. Jennings has been appointed rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic cathedral, it was announced Tuesday by Bishop Leo Nelligan of Pembroke, Ontario.

Father Jennings, who is only 41 years of age, was appointed Tuesday to his new position on the twelfth anniversary of his ordination as a priest by the coadjutor archbishop of Edmonton, Archbishop MacDonald.

Since 1934 Father Jennings has been chancellor of the archdiocese of Edmonton and has served here since becoming a member of the priesthood in St. John. New Brunswick.

He formerly taught philosophy at St. Joseph's seminary, served as secretary to Archbishop O'Leary, went overseas in the Great War, and served as curate at St. Joseph's cathedral.

INJURED MAN BEING FLOWN TO EDMONTON

Pilot Tweed Halts Freighting Operations to Make Mercy Flight

Stopping freighting operations to make a "mercy flight" to bring an unconscious lumberman from a camp near Whitecourt to Edmonton for medical attention, Pilot Charlie Tweed, of United Air Transport, is expected to arrive at Edmonton airport on Wednesday.

The man, Hans Neilson, received severe injuries to his head late Tuesday when struck by a falling tree, it was reported by officials of the Workmen's Compensation Board. The Board immediately made arrangements with the University hospital to take care of the man as soon as he arrives in the city.

Grant McConachie, president of United Air Transport, was contacted and Tweed, who is freighting at Whitecourt, was instructed by radio to fly the man to Edmonton.

Bad weather late Tuesday made it impossible to begin the flight that evening, but it is expected Tweed will arrive with Neilson sometime Wednesday.

C. W. PARKE IS DEAD AT AGE 70

A resident of Alberta since 1907, when he located at Red Deer from his home in Caledonia, Ontario, Charles Watson Parke died Wednesday morning at his residence, 11120 86 avenue, at the age of 70 years. Mr. Parke has resided in Edmonton since 1911.

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, info which order he was initiated at Red Deer, many years ago. He travelled for about 21 years for the John Deer Implement Company, until the time of his retirement five years ago, forced upon him by poor health. He is a brother of the members of the Parke and Parke firm of pharmacists in Hamilton, Ontario.

Surviving are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. R. B. Houstis, Eugene, Oregon; Mrs. Ranald, D. White, Edmonton, Mrs. P. H. Gaetz, Shelton, Connecticut; one son, William Norwood of Eugene, Oregon; one sister, Louisa, in Hamilton, Ontario.

A Masonic funeral service will be held Friday afternoon, at Red Deer, where the body is being forwarded from Edmonton. Interment will take place in the family plot at Red Deer, where a daughter of Mr. Parke, who died in 1914, is buried. Howard and McBride funeral directors are in charge of arrangements.

Freakies and His Friends — —By Blosser

Curious World — —By William Ferguson

The Antarctic comprises half of the earth's unexplored territory. Other great areas are in the Arctic regions, many islands of northern Canada, and large areas in the Canadian mainland. There also are unexplored lands in northern Siberia, Tibet, Arabia, the high mountains of the Himalayan chain, Africa, Australia, and South America.

NEXT: Are birds of both North and South America closely related to those of the old world?

Intimate Opera Is Discovery Of Forgotten Music

Tales Of Hardship Among Teachers In Saskatchewan Told

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Dec. 29.—Tales of hardship and privation among Saskatchewan school teachers occupied the afternoon session of the annual council conference of the Saskatchewan Teachers' Federation, which opened here Tuesday.

Twenty-four councillors of the federation rose to report on conditions in the areas they represented and they recited instances of hardship which included going without proper shoes and clothing to working in overcrowded schools.

One told of a school in northeastern Saskatchewan, near the Manitoba boundary, where a school built to accommodate 28 pupils was now housing 84, and where another school had just been opened in a basement with no ventilation.

Another expressed the belief that many teachers were so afraid of losing their positions they did not dare to complain. Instances were cited of teachers repairing shoes with cardboard soles, possessing but one pair of trousers, years old, of receiving as little as $35 in five months with $30 of that amount going for board.

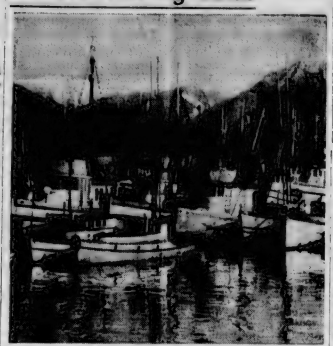

A representative from a northern inspectorate told how the cancellation of millions of dollars in tax arrears in southern Saskatchewan had its effect on the north, as the taxpayers stopped liquidating arrears in the expectation the government would extend the policy to the north.

The same man went on to tell how, on Christmas eve, a teacher with a family phoned him to inquire how he could obtain relief.

Increased school grants, which teachers expected would be voted by school boards to increase salaries, had not been used that way, it was charged. Of the total increase, it was claimed only 16 per cent had been passed on to teachers and 84 per cent appropriated by school boards for other purposes, in spite of the fact salaries ranging from $200 to $300 were common throughout the province.

School principals in many instances were receiving less salary than scavengers and janitors, it was claimed, and conditions in some places had become so deplorable that teachers' morale had been destroyed and they were forced to leave the profession. In one inspectorate, 17 teachers had forsaken their profession since June, it was stated.

Record Fishing Ends

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 29.—Upwards of 17,000 workers ended another record British Columbia commercial fishing season recently entailing the operation of innumerable ships ranging from small skiffs to large schooners and some forty-six large canneries. At Vancouver now, fishermen are busily engaged in repairing the ships—heart of the industry that accounts for more than a third of Canada's annual sea harvest. At the same time, the provincial government completes a $40,000 program to rehabilitate B.C.'s extensive game fisheries.

NAVY OFFICER HITS NOVELTY IN TINY SHOW

Cast of Three and Six Suitcases of Props is Whole Company

HALIFAX, Dec. 29—The urge of New York's Lieut.-Commander Wendell Phillips Dodge, U.S.N.R., to produce "some sort of a little show that would be a novelty to Canada and the United States," provided North American theatregoers with the London Intimate Opera Company.

The company with its cast of three and its six suitcases of props is the world—is as remarkable as the full-bearded, blue-eyed Dodge, who is a member of the United States navy reserve and of the famed Explorers' Club in New York as well as a dramatic critic and producer. He is directing the North American tour of the company.

THIS IS DIFFERENT

Opera is usually associated with huge theatres, vast wardrobes, battalions of electricians, stage hands, dressers and behind-the-scenes men, tons of scenery, elaborate transformation effects and so on.

But intimate opera is just the opposite. To illustrate the tinyness of the Lilliputian company, their entire "properties" such as music, costumes and scenery are carried in six suitcases, and here is how it began:

While travelling in England, Dodge met Frederick Woodhouse, musical adviser of elementary schools and adult education in England, and Geoffrey Dunn, professor of opera at the Royal Academy of Music in London.

FORGOTTEN MUSIC

The two "musical magicians" had come across forgotten music, known as intimate opera, while delving in the British musical archives.

As Woodhouse, baritone of the company, puts it: "Intimate opera may aptly be described as bearing somewhat the same relationship to grand opera as chamber music does to orchestral and symphonic music. In a word, it was the rich man's private opera, composed especially for performance in the salons of the 17th and 18th centuries."

Geoffrey Dunn is a versatile musician. The tenor of the company, he also is the translator. He broadcasts in English 16th century songs with lute accompaniment and has written a text for a jazz opera. (This was an attempt to adapt the 18th century form to the modern jazz or "swing" idiom, the story of his opera being a medieval tragedy.)

ENGLISH OPERA

"It has long been assumed that England has no operatic tradition," said Dunn. "It comes as a surprise to many to learn that hundreds of operas were turned out in England during the 17th and 18th century by many composers. In fact their work was the forerunner of the grand opera of today."

The other member of the cast is Winifred Radford, a celebrated English soprano.

In awaiting a victim, a trapdoor spider will lie at its door as long as three months.

Scientific Solution For Wars and Poverty Seen

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 29.—A scientific solution of the problems of war and poverty was suggested Tuesday to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by an agricultural expert.

Speaking in the symposium of science and society which the association is conducting this week at its annual meeting, Gove Hambidge, research writer of the United States department of agriculture, declared scientists hold the key to solution of the world's great problems if they will apply the same approach now in such fields as medicine, chemistry and astronomy.

Despite advances of science which have created surpluses in agricultural and other goods so that no person or nation should be poverty-stricken, Mr. Hambidge said, there are still many individuals who cannot afford the minimum diet for proper existence, and many nations "which sometimes seem to me to be on the way to smashing civilizations" for lack of food and other materials.

One example of what can be accomplished by socially minded institutions in cutting across economic boundaries, Mr. Hambidge added, was the gift chases of surplus farm commodities which were holding prices down and distribution of them by the federal government to poverty-stricken families on relief. Another, he said, was the sale of bedrock, on which the United States has a monopoly, to foreign countries on modest terms.

Practically all inches have blue eyes at birth, but the permanent color appears in the first few weeks.

SURVEY FINDS RURAL SOCIAL LIFE MEAGRE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 29—Most popular diversions of the average rural high school student in Missouri are reading books and newspapers and going to motion picture shows, a survey by sociologists at the University of Missouri revealed.

The report cited a need for more adequate recreational and social activity.

Other popular spare-time diversions are checkers, house parties, listening to the radio, and "dates." Zither playing and flute playing ranked 112th and 113th in the list and were least popular.

The average youth goes to church from 10 to 39 times a year, and 42 per cent of the students are members of some church young people's organization, but most of the activity in this field is by girls. Most youths are members of some farm or social organization.

Only one-fifth of the boys intend to follow farming as a vocation. Farming, however, is the most popular occupational preference, with aviation and engineering ranking next. Among the girls, stenography, nursing, teaching and beauty culture are preferred vocations.

Escaped Inmate Of Jail Returned

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Dec. 29. — Wilfrid Woods, who escaped from General and Marine hospital here Monday when being taken from that institution to Grey County jail by Dr. Richard Howey, jail physician, was captured late Tuesday by Chief of Police Thomas H. Carson and placed in jail.

When arrested Woods was in the office of Dr. J. P. Middlebro with his sister, Mrs. Vera Thompson. "I had no intention of running away," he said.

Woman Mayor Begins New Term

WEBBWOOD, Ont., Dec. 29—Barbara Hanley, Canada's first and only woman mayor, Tuesday began her third term as head of this northern Ontario town. The nomination meeting last night brought no opposition to Mrs. Hanley and the clerk declared her elected by acclamation.

Capitol Theatre To Hold It's 12th Annual New Year's Eve Frolic On Friday Night
The Capitol Theatre is all set to stage its 12th New Year's Eve celebration, and in all the 12 long years that have passed it has never failed to sell out every seat in the house. Manager Walter Wilson is quite proud of the fact that he was the one who inaugurated these frolics in Canada. It is the one night in the year that almost "anything goes" at the Capitol, and all who attend the 12th celebration on Friday night may rest assured they will have a good time.
The feature film attraction is a rollicking comedy romance, entitled "I'll Take Romance," starring the one and only Grace Moore, with that suave comedian Melvyn Douglas. Also included in the film fare are a novelty and a comedy special.
Each patron upon entering the Theatre will be presented with favors such as: a hat, balloons, noise-makers, etc. Some $600.00 in prizes will be awarded, including a Leonard new style, electric refrigerator, valued at $175.00 and a two-piece modern type of studio lounge suite, valued at $110.00. In addition to these two grand prizes there will be scores of other really valuable and worthwhile gifts, which are now on display in the lobby of the Capitol Theatre.
The doors will open at 11:15 Friday night with the show commencing with the short subjects as soon as all are comfortably seated. The show will run until one minute before the break of the New Year. There will be silence until the gong sounds and 1938 arrives in all its glory, and everybody is expected to break into song. After a few minutes of Community singing the gifts will be awarded, and immediately after this the feature comedy film will start.

Looking Them Over

How Good Mog?

Too Many Ties

Robbie's Story

THE problem that the static experts in Toronto are trying to solve today is whether Mog Mason was extra hot last night, or whether Jimmy Chapman was having an off night. Certainly none of the advance dope gave Mason credit for having anything much in the way of a punch. In fact Chapman was credited with having a harder punch than Baby Yack, the Canadian bantam champ who recently subdued Mason.

Tommy Farr, who has developed Mason and was in his corner last night, is convinced that Mog wasn't right when he fought Yack. In fact, the Tonypandy Thumper hasn't much respect for Yack's ability, and believes that Mason should take him any time they square off.

Farr isn't the only one who is not impressed by Yack. Several current boxing ratings by fairly reliable authorities place the Baby at the bottom of the list of world title contenders. The National Boxing Association does rate Yack up near the top, but it must be remembered that Frank Hogan of Montreal is the president of the N.B.A.

Farr took time out from his training for his fight with Braddock to go to Toronto to second Mason. Thomas is convinced that Mason has the makings of a world champion. It is just possible that Farr is right—he was once before in fight forecasting, you will recall. If he is right, Chapman's defeat need not be taken too much to heart.

Deadlocks Plentiful In N.H.L.

COUNTING last night's clashes, 70 games have been played in the N.H.L. to date. Out of these 70 tilts no less than 11 have finished up in a tie. That is a pretty high proportion and it has brought suggestions from U.S. sport editors that the rules should be changed so that the teams continue to play until one or other breaks the deadlock. The proposal is overtime should finish as soon as the tie is broken regardless of how long that takes.

In support of this suggestion it is argued that the customers don't like there no-decision affairs and that it is bad for the gate receipts.

There is some truth in this argument all right, but it is questionable if unlimited overtime would not be more monotonous than tie games.

Robertson's Rise Strange Story

FROM a Red Deer reader comes a request for the dope on Earl Robertson's rise to his present position as the ace goalie of the National Hockey League. Here is Robertson's story, starting when he was with Windsor after having played here for the Eskimos.

Earl Robertson, brilliant young goalie whose sensational work in the nets for New York Americans is given much credit for the success of that team in its present National League campaign, made his debut in major league hockey as emergency goalie for Detroit in the Stanley Cup series last spring through one of the strangest set of circumstances known to sport.

A year before during the playoffs, Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, went to Detroit with but one purpose in his mind. He wanted to buy Robertson for his Maple Leafs last season.

At Detroit the Olympics and Windsor were staging an International League playoff battle. In the Windsor net was the good-looking Robertson. In the Detroit net was Wilf Cude.

That night Robertson had the worst night he ever had in his life. With little defense to help him, the O's ran up a nine-goal total on him. Connie looked at Broda, who was good that night, and decided on Walter. He turned down Windsor's offer to sell Robertson. He bought Broda for $7,500 cash from Jack Adams.

At the start of this season when Windsor did not enter the new International-American League, there was Robertson, a good goalie, with no place to go. Adams, with Broda gone from the O's, needed a spare goalie and got Robertson cheap. So Earl became Detroit property. Broda became a major leaguer with the Leafs.

Robertson drifted about all that year. First he was the Wings' practice goalie. Then when Jimmy Franks, Pittsburgh goalie, was hurt, Adams sent him there. And when Normie Smith injured an arm badly in the play-offs last spring Robertson was called on in this emergency, and played so well that at the start of the present season Americans bought him, and he has proven a splendid investment.

All in all it was a great night in three games in the National Hockey League with this scene providing major thrills for the 37,500 fans who cheered or booed their hockey warriors. Sixteen thousand fans turned out at Boston, 13,238 jostled their way into the New York gardens while 8,242 ganged Montreal's farm, rating the best crowd of the year for the Montreal rink. Pictured in the above layout is top left, Goalie Turk Broda whose brilliant netminding gave the Leafs a 3-0 win against the Americans. Top right is Wilf Cude, also brilliant as he shutout Maroons while his Canadien mates scored two goals. In the lower line of pictures, is from left to right, Phil Watson who suffered a kayo blow from Eddie Shore's stick. Both Shore and Watson received major penalties. Next to Watson is Shore, the dynamic Daddy of the Bruins. Right of Shore is pictured George Mantha, clever Canadien, back in harness, while at the extreme right in the lower pictures is Bill "Flash" Hollett, who punched home the winning goal for the Bruins.

Eddie Shore Belts Watson; Milt Hurt; Hollett Wins Game

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Bill "Flash" Hollett sank an unassisted goal in the last period last night to give Boston Bruins a 3-2 win over New York Rangers and widen their margin to six points over the rest of the National Hockey League's American group.

An overflow crowd of 16,000 saw rough action from start to finish. Each side suffered a casualty. Milt Schmidt, Boston centre, received a fractured jaw bone in a crash with Mac Colville, and Phil Watson's forehead was cut when Eddie Shore rapped him with his stick.

Watson and Shore jostled each other, waving their sticks high, from the New York net to the middle of the centre zone before they came to blows. As they bumped each other down the ice, Referee Clarence Campbell warned them to stop.

Watson, however, disregarded the official and aimed a slash at Shore's neck. The burly Bostonian ducked the swing and then retaliated by clouting Watson with such force that he dropped to the ice and remained there for five minutes.

PROVOKED EDDIE

Shore drew a major penalty for his assault and Watson received the same sentence because, Campbell explained, "he provoked Shore."

The Bruins pulled into a 2-0 lead on goals scored by Cooney Weiland and Bill Cowley during the first 21 minutes of play. Weiland's counter was registered at 9:21 in the first period and Cowley's after 16 seconds of second period play.

Six minutes after the red light flashed for Cowley, the Rangers took advantage of Dit Clapper's penalty and tied the score, Clint Smith and Cecil Dillon counting.

BARELY MADE IT

The Shore-Watson episode occurred during the deadlocked play and the count remained even until 14:46 in the third frame when Hollett hooked a loose puck in the centre zone, jumped in alone and swung inside the defence. Dave Kerr came out as Hollett fired feebly but the puck slid between the goalie's padded legs and ended in his cage.

LINEUPS:

BOSTON: Thompson; Hollett, Shore; Cowley; Gottlieb, Sands. Subs: Clapper, Portland, Goldsworthy, Pettinger, Jackson, Dumart, Schmidt, Bauer and Weiland.

Broda Is Savior As Leafs On Fly

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Thanks to a brilliant goal-tending exhibition by Turk Broda, Toronto Maple Leafs broke their lead in the National Hockey League's international section by whitewashing New York Americans 3-0 here last night.

Two of Leafs goals were scored on breakaways from New York power plays as Amerks tried in vain to beat the blond Toronto goalie. He deserved his shutout.

AMERKS MISS ART

Amerks were minus Art Chapman, suffering from a cold, and Hooley Smith was forced into double duty pivoting two lines. Tommy Anderson was also out of the lineup with a shoulder injury.

A crowd of 13,238 saw Harvey Jackson and Leafs in front late in the second period. His rebound also paved the way for the second goal at 14:44 in the third session. Syl Apps doing the sniping.

Less than a minute remained when big Charlie Conacher shook loose from an Amerk attack and shot down a rink-wide pass to Bill Thoms, who tallied the scoring.

Americans — Robertson; Massey, Jerwa; Smith; Carr, Schriner. Subs—Day, Gallagher, Stewart, Wiseman, Lamb, Shill, Emms, Johnson.

Officials—Mickey Ion and Johnny Mitchell.

SUMMARY

First period—Scoring, none. Penalties—Murray (2), Chamberlain.

Second period—1, Toronto, Jackson (Dillon, Fowler) 13:43. Penalty—Hornert.

Third period—2, Toronto, Apps (Jackson, Dillon) 14:4; 3, Toronto Thoms (Conacher) 19:05. Penalties—Wiseman, Thoms.

Cude Too Cute For Beveridge

MONTREAL, Dec. 29.—Tiny Wilf Cude bettered Bill Beveridge last night in one of the National Hockey League's great goal-tending duels, and Cude's Canadiens defeated the Maroons 2-0.

The two Montreal teams turned on a brisling display for the season's largest crowd here, more than 8,000 customers, and the netminders had to be the individual stars in the heavy firing. The result, consolidating Canadiens in second place in their group and Maroons in fourth, tied the clubs at two wins each in the intra-city series.

George Mantha, doing a full stretch of work for the first time since he suffered an injury in the last Maroon-Canadien meeting, fired the first goal eight minutes after the start, and Babe Siebert closed the scoring half way through the third period on a rink-long drive.

Mantha's counter came on a passing play with Rod Lorrain and George Brown, the little winger stepping around Des Smith before scoring. Siebert ploughed through Smith and Evans to meet Beveridge all alone and whip the second goal high into the rigging.

LINEUPS

Maroons — Beveridge; Wentworth, Evans; Waid; Northcott, Robinson Subs—Smith, Sands, Bunco, Trottier, Cain, Marker, Gracie, Bunge, Cook.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Canadiens, Mantha (Lorrain, Brown) 8:35. Penalties—Bunge, Goupille.

Second period—Scoring, none. Penalties—Joliat, Robinson.

BOBBY'S COUSIN MUST RACE FOR PLACE ON TEAM

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Dec. 29—Cecil Pearce, cousin of the famous Bobby and a former Olympian, may not represent Australia in the singles sculling event at the British Empire games here in February.

A few years ago Cecil was regarded as the natural successor to Bobby as world's professional champion. But the youngster was beaten in the Berlin Olympics and recently a former Australian champion, H. J. Turner, defeated him in the Henley-on-Yarra regatta.

Perplexed selectors, who had their eye on Pearce, have asked him to compete in a special race against Turner, the winner to be entered in the Empire games.

Goodland Bolsters Hopes For Chance At McSporran

Sailor Belts Emil Lust To Canvas For Ten Count In Seventh Round

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LETHBRIDGE, Dec. 29.—Rallying strongly after a disastrous sixth round in which he hit the deck for counts of eight and nine, Sailor Goodland bolstered his chances for a shot at Eddie McSporran's Western Canada middleweight championship last night when he knocked out Emil Lust, Medicine Hat, in 45 seconds of the seventh round. The climax to a thrilling bout came with startling suddeness after Lust seemed on the way to victory.

A total of nine knockdowns, mostly for counts of eight and nine, speaks for the blazing action of the bout. Goodland went down five times while Lust dusted the resin off his back on four occasions before absorbing the knockout drop.

Goodland started strongly, putting the Hat battler down for counts of eight and nine in the first round. Lust went down for another eight count in the second but got off the floor to put the Sailor away for nine.

LUST RALLIES

Lust was down for another nine seconds in the third but rallied valiantly in the fourth, when he staggered Goodland with a hard left. Anxious to put across the finisher, Lust tried to straighten the Sailor out with uppercuts, but a foul blow dumped Goodland to the canvas writhing in agony. He was automatically awarded the round and was able to continue after a five-minute rest.

Lust pressed hard in the fifth, shifting his attack from the head to the body. A terrific right put Goodland down and the bell saved him at five. Lust again carried the fight to the Sailor in the sixth, two solar-plexus punches sending Goodland down for counts of eight and nine.

RIGHT IS CLINCHER

As the seventh round got underway they both exchanged hard lefts. As they sparred in mid-ring, Goodland caught Lust with a hard left to the jaw and as he fell the Sailor swung over a terrific overhand right that caught Lust back of the left ear. The Hat battler fell on his back, rolled over at the count of four and tried to raise himself. He was counted out as he tried wearily to push himself up.

Goodland will be matched against Eddie McSporran in a bout sanctioned by the Western Canada Boxing and Wrestling Federation and, which, it is expected, will be staged here in the near future.

JOCK SUTHERLAND MAY QUIT PITT

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 29—The Sun-Telegraph said Tuesday Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland is preparing to resign as football coach of the University of Pittsburgh, effective at the end of next season.

The newspaper said that was the conclusion drawn by his friends from developments since close of the 1937 season with its aftermath of spurning an expected invitation to play in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

BAY BEAVERS TACKLE LEAFS VARSITY RINK

Beaverites Gunning For First Win After Close Score

Hudson Bay's surprising Beavers and Wetaskiwin Maple Leafs will tangle at Varsity Arena tonight at 8:30 in a regular fixture of the Northern Alberta Hockey League.

The Bay sextet is gunning for its first win of the year after coming within a hair's breadth of gaining it Monday afternoon at Varsity Arena, when they held the second place Capital squad to a 5-5 overtime draw. Wetaskiwin will be out to gain some measure of revenge for the humiliating 10-5 defeat which they suffered from the hands of the Capital team Christmas Day.

Maher Takes Lead In Intermediate

Official statistics released by J. F. McDonald, official scorekeeper of the Northern Alberta Intermediate Hockey League, placed Paul Maher of the Capitals in the lead by the slim margin of one point over Weiss of Wetaskiwin, who has garnered 10 points so far this season. Right behind follow two more Capital snipers with eight points apiece, Jimmy Graham getting together six goals and two assists for a total of eight, while Lemieux has four goals and the same number of helpers.

Varsity Golden Bears' big burly defenceman, MacKay, is the league's bad man, with 18 minutes in the cooler, while Lemieux is challenging for the unsavory title with 16 points.

Following are the standings:

	G	A	Pts	P
Maher, Capitals	7	4	11	11
Weiss, Wetaskiwin	6	4	10	6
Graham, Capitals	6	2	8	6
Lemieux, Capitals	4	4	8	10

Canada's Oarsmen

Weatherman Eases Up As Juniors Battle Tonight

There's a rumor around that the weatherman is easing up on frost bites, hinting that tonight no frozen noses, feet, or worse, will be suffered when Edmonton Athletic Club and Army and Navy Cardinals perspire freely in their scheduled Junior Hockey League clash at the Arena. Tonight's game will start at the usual Wednesday time of 8:30 p.m.

Beaten most regularly, but showing signs of a spirited revival, the Cardinals will be under full fight as they aspire to take the E.A.C.'s down a peg or two this evening. In their last buffer against Safeways the Cardinals showed old fight and indications of at last clicking with more smoothness. They are desperate for points, being cellar occupants far below the Safeway mob, therefore their clash against the Clubmen will be of importance.

But the Cardinals are not fancied any too highly this evening, the reason is easily told, for they clash with the E.A.C.'s who now have a commanding lead in the league, E.A.C.'s will be fresh from their triumph against the Wesleys. They will not be pulling any punches and will be "iced" with the intention of just ramming home as many goals as possible.

Maybe those Cardinals will have the surprise power out this evening. Who knows?

Welsh Bantam Ace Is Much Superior; Farr Seconds Mog

Heavy Body Punching Wears Down Edmonton Boxer, Uppercuts Finish Him; Woods Beats Wallace In Prelim.

TORONTO, Dec. 29.—Mog Mason, Welsh bantamweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Jimmy Chapman of Edmonton in the sixth round of an eight-round boxing match here last night.

The fight was stopped at 1:45 seconds of the sixth round. The western Canada bantam titlist, knocked down several times, could not cope with Mason's jolting punches and was on the run throughout the bout.

Mason appeared much improved over his first bout in Canada when he lost to Baby Yack of Toronto, by a decision. Tommy Farr was in his counterman's corner.

STARTS BADLY

Chuck Woods of Detroit gained an eight-round decision over Vancouver's Gordon Wallace, former welterweight champion, in a fast preliminary. Woods weighed 134½ pounds; Wallace 148½.

Wallace was floored in the first round by Woods' jolting right that bothered the former champion throughout the fight. There was no count. Woods piled up a lead on points and the bout that the Vancouver fighter could not overcome.

Heavy body-punching wore down the 19-year-old Chapman, late of Vancouver and formerly of Edmonton, but vicious right uppercuts finished him. Mason was continually on the aggressive from the start but it took him until the third round to get the range.

BELL SAVES JIMMY

Although Chapman landed a number of telling punches, it was evident he wasn't strong enough for the pocket Hercules from Wales nor experienced enough. Mason weighed 121¾, Chapman 119½.

Farr Talks Loudly Seconding Mason

TORONTO, Dec. 29. — Tommy Farr, British heavyweight, came to Toronto voicing enough prophecies to last a crystal-gazer most of the new year.

Farr, who dropped a decision to heavyweight champion Joe Louis in New York last August, forecast he would:

1. Knock out former champion Jim Braddock in New York next month.
2. Knock Maxie Baer's "ears off" in their Miami bout in February.
3. Be "world champion within the year."

BOWLING

Mercantile Playoff

The final match in the first half of the Mercantile Ten Pin League between Dodds' Dodgers of the Monday section and Great West Garment of the Friday section took place last night at the Recreation Academy with the Dodgers winning two games and the first half honors. The Dodgers now have the right to play in the finals in the spring against the second half winners. Joe Hale was the outstanding bowler with games of 233 and 223 while Joe also picked up the 7-9 split, a shot that is practically impossible to get.

FLIN FLONNERS WIN

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Dec. 29.—Two quick goals by Flin Flon Bombers within 14 seconds early in the first period spelled the difference in the final round when the North Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League leaders downed Prince Albert Minto.

SYL APPS BEST CANUCK ATHLETE

TORONTO, Dec. 29—The outstanding Canadian athlete in 1937 was Syl Apps, whose feats at centre ice for Toronto Maple Leafs earned him the award in the annual Canadian Press poll. It was the first time a hockey player won the distinction.

Sports writers chose the 23-year-old Apps over such long-distance running stars as Walter Young of Verdun, Que., and Scotty Rankine of Preston, Ont. But there was no doubt as to their choice, Apps drawing more votes than the other two together.

Stanley Horne of Ottawa, Canadian Rugby champion, drew attention. So did Johnny Loaring of Windsor and Sigurd Neilsen of Winnipeg, N.B. track men; boxing's Baby Yack of Toronto and Eddie Wenstob of Edmonton, and swimming's Bob Pirie.

CANTWELL EARNS PITCHING HONORS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The International League's best pitcher of 1937 wasn't one of those strong-armed youngsters who subdued the opposition while Newark was battering its way to the minor league championship, but Old Ben Cantwell of Jersey Giants.

That comes straight from the official pitching records, released today. Cantwell, down from the majors for the first time in 19 years, compiled an earned run average of 1.65 per nine-inning game over a stretch of 175 innings in 29 contests. The next best records were 2.42 by Kemp Wicker of Newark, who hurled oly 93 innings, and 2.43 by Joe Sivess of Baltimore in 163 chapters.

MINOR HOCKEY

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 29—Kansas City Greyhounds defeated St. Paul 5-2 in the American Hockey Association last night. Nick Wasnie, Frank Ingarfield and Melville Nicholson and Teasdale scored for Greyhounds and Happy Harnott netted both St. Paul goals.

TULSA TRIUMPHS

WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 29—Tulsa Oilers racked up a 3-1 victory over Wichita Skyhawks in the American Hockey Association last night, only Biff Ranger's lone goal in the second period saving Hawks from a blanking. Williams, Des Roche and Hank Dyck netted for Oilers.

WEYBURN TO TOP

WEYBURN, Sask., Dec. 29.—Weyburn Beavers jumped into undisputed possession of second place in the Southern Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League when they took Beattie Ramsay's Moose Jaw Aces into camp 4-2 here last night.

PLAN NATTY UNIFORM

Calmar and Thorsby Squads in 4-4 Draw

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

CALMAR, Dec. 29.—Calmar's senior curling team tied to a 4-4 overtime draw with the Thorsby sextet at Calmar Christmas day. After two overtime periods had failed to break the tie the teams decided to break the tie at a later date.

Coleman and Nelson Battle to 2-2 Draw

COLEMAN, Dec. 29.—Playing before a small crowd but on fast ice, Coleman Canadians and Nelson Maple Leafs battled to a 2-2 decision in a Kootenay Hockey League game here Tuesday night. Both teams played rather ragged hockey. Johnny Smith and Alf Carr were Maple Leaf's marksmen. Jack Ainsworth and Jimmy Joyce were the Canadians' goal getters.

Londos Is After Mythical Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Jim Londos is coming back to the wrestling wars avowedly to settle something bothering him for a long time—"too many champions."

Londos, out of action for the past two years, will meet Bobby Burns at the Coliseum Thursday night, and says he will convince everyone there is only one real champion—Jeem Londos."

Leaf "A" Midgets Beat "B" Team, 5-0

Maple Leaf's "A" squad took their "B" team club-mates over the rocks for a 5-0 shellacking last night in a scheduled fixture of the Midget Hockey League. Fairy scored two for the winners with Prasiel, Pirie and Black each recording singles.

MILLET JUNIORS WIN FROM LEDUC SEXTET 2 TO 1

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MILLET, Dec. 29.—A large number of hockey fans braved the inclement weather Boxing Day to watch Millet Red Wings battle to a 2-1 win over Leduc juniors in a Sandlot League fixture. The game was fast and featured stiff body checking, but the officials were only called on to hand out one penalty throughout the contest, that going to Sorenson of Leduc in the third period.

The breaks of the game paved the way to the opening counter after the teams had fought their way through two scoreless sessions. D. Rowley let go a drive that Brown in the Leduc net blocked, but one of his teammates accidentally slipped the rubber into the goal while attempting to clear the rebound. The other Millet score came from the stick of J. Carney on a pass from R. Olesen. Leduc's single was scored by Buss from S. Towne.

LINEUP

Leduc: R. Brown, D. Rainer, Sorensen, Buss, Wilson, S. Towne, Ecsery, E. Towne, Kohunoit, Durvacy.

Millet: L. Kerr, R. Olesen, G. Kerr, J. Carney, B. McIntosh, D. Rowley, K. Werr and J. Goin.

BARNARD—SAUNDERS

MR. and Mrs. Ross Burton Saunders announce the marriage of their daughter, Elinor Myrl, to Mr. Francis Harry Barnard, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Barnard of Vancouver, formerly of Edmonton, on December 24.

LATTA—HICKEY

The marriage took place Friday evening at the parent's home, of Alice Berna Hickey, to Mr. Walter Scott Latta, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Latta of Vancouver. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Carlson, and the bride's father gave her away. She wore a dress of floral satin and the whole was covered with lace white net, floor length, and fell in beautiful folds. The dress was trimmed with silver and she wore silver shoes to match. The white net veil was floor length held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. The bride, who carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums was attended by one bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ellen Hickey, sister of the bride, who wore a peach taffeta dress trimmed with gold, made on bias flare slim lines. She wore gold shoes, also gold crown band around her head, and carried a bouquet of mauve chrysanthemums. The wedding march was played by Mrs. E. Simmons, sister of the groom. The best man was Mr. Carl Rudyk. A beautiful solo was sung by Miss Daryl Latta, entitled "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. E. Simmons. A reception was held in the parents' home at 11632 92 street, where members and intimate friends of the family were entertained. The beautiful cake was three-tiered, trimmed with white and silver bells. The happy couple were married under a silver shimmering bell with a decorated Christmas tree for the back-ground. At the end of the ceremony Miss Daryl Latta sang, "God Bless This House." Mrs. Barnes poured tea, assisted by her daughter, Miss Pearl Barnes and Miss Birkley. Other guests were: Miss Jean L. Hickey, Mr. Owen Jones, Mr. and Mrs. F. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Wilschinski, Mrs. Wilschinski, Miss Jeanette Wilschinski, Master Wilbert Wilschinski, Mrs. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hickey, Miss Eva Latta, Mr. and Mrs. A. Latta, Mrs. B. Latta, Miss Roseabelle Latta, Mr. B. Latta, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. White, Master G. R. White, Miss Violet Berkley, Mrs. A. W. Barnes.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR MRS. HARRISON

Largely attended by close personal friends and members of various organizations in the city with which she and her husband were connected, and with a profusion of floral tributes testifying to the high esteem in which she was held in Edmonton, the funeral of the late Mrs. Kathleen Margaret Harrison, wife of H. W. Harrison, well known Canadian National Railway employee, was held on Tuesday afternoon at Andrews Brothers' funeral chapel.

Services were conducted by Rev. S. H. Irving, who spoke feelingly of the unselfish and devoted record of Mrs. Harrison and of her great capacity for sympathy and friendship, which, he said, was reflected in the large attendance at the services held to honor her memory. Members of the Order of the Royal Purple, auxiliary to B.P.O. Lodge No. 11, also conducted the impressive services for a departed sister of the order. Honored Royal Lady Mrs. T. Dippie being assisted by Mrs. T. Butterworth, Mrs. H. C. Erasmo, Mrs. M. Helm and Mrs. Bert Laing, officers of the Edmonton Lodge of the order.

Pallbearers were close personal friends of the family, George Heatherington, Albert Dupuis and Ray Latimer and members of Edmonton Lodge No. 11 B.P.O.E., A. F. Archer, E. Repp and W. A. de Graves.

Interment was made in Beechmount cemetery, a long cortege of cars making the trip to the cemetery for the services at the graveside, where another wealth of floral tributes from friends made a particularly impressive sight.

Fire Destroys Beverly Home

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the two-storey frame home of Robert Arkenstall at Beverly Tuesday night. Arkinstall's wife and two children were forced to flee from the house. Arkinstall saw the blaze as he drove home from work.

The house, valued at more than $3,000, was completely destroyed, and the flames, which held so quickly that it was impossible to save any of the contents.

Belated Holiday

By ELINORE COWAN STONE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CAPT. BARRYMORE TRENT, hero, flying "daredevil."
MIRANDA TRENT, Barrymore's grandmother, a strong woman.

Yesterday: Miss Blanchard enters the picture. Linda doesn't know exactly how, except that Mrs. Trent and Barry are concerned in some manner. How will it affect her life?

CHAPTER V

LATER that day, when Linda ran a downstairs to fetch Mrs. Trent's afternoon mail, Barry stepped from the library door into her path.

"Don't rate even a few minutes once a day? he demanded; and swinging her from her feet, he held her close to him for a moment. Then he set her gently down again.

"You're so little, Titania—so little to do to a man what you're doing to me," he murmured.

"I must go," Linda whispered on a quick breath.

Barry, she was remembering, had a way with the lower classes.

"This afternoon, then," Barry begged, "while Grandmother's taking her nap. In the library—nobody comes there."

"No," said Linda. "No, Barry."

It was incredible that Geoffry Benton's daughter, for whom to be sought after had always been as much a matter of course as to be served by her morning coffee, should be standing here in a strange woman's house, feeling this hot, sickening humiliation.

"Why not?"

"Because," Linda flashed, "I can't be stealing around in your grandmother's house—hiding with you in corners like a—oh, Barry, you must see that I can't!"

"I do see." He had been holding both her hands; now he dropped them. "So you imagine I'd thought of it that way, do you—that that's the kind of thing I would want?"

He looked so hurt—so like a slapped little boy—that Linda, confused and wretched, cried swiftly, "No—not that either. But, Barry, she's so old—and you're all she's got."

"But after all, you're not taking away anything she's ever had. Good Lord! I don't think of you exactly as a part-time grandmother."

"That's better." Barry caught her hand and drew her to a seat on the stairway; then he sat down on the step below her.

"You're not letting the Duchess' legend of the Trent women get you down, are you, darling? They were no doubt a fine, upstanding lot of women, as I should be the last to deny. But I'm a mere mine little and sweet, with hands like Titania's—" he lifted one of her hands to his cheek—"and that entirely reach the floor when she sits in a mansize chair. And all the better if she turns pale at the sight of blood—especially if it's mine . . . Anything else?"

"Well —" Linda hesitated. It was hard to think with his dark head so near the touch of her hand. "We've known each other so very long, have we?"

"Not to be surprised to find out how much I know about you, Ira—" he sat up and grinned as if at a new and entirely amusing idea—"I see! You're sold on that bromide of the Duchess about 'a girl in every port.' I don't blame you—this to be said about that: after you've knocked about a bit, you've picked up some pretty definite ideas about women. The girl I ask to marry me stays asked."

When Linda sat very still for a moment, not knowing what to say because she could not be sure how much he meant, Barry said, his eyes still on the hand he still held in his, "Listen, Titania! Suppose you knew that I was going to—oh, let's put it differently! . . . Suppose you know that I had to go away almost at once, and might not come back for—well, for a long time. Can't that?"

"Yes," said Linda, startled by his unwonted gravity.

"Would you marry me then, or would you still feel that we must wait until we knew each other better?"

Linda said, "I would marry you if it were the last thing I did," and was amazed to hear her own voice speaking the words.

"In spite of the Duchess and what she might say?"

"In spite of the whole world."

"And you will remember that I asked you this, and what you answered?"

"I will remember," she said.

"That's being a fine brave Trent woman," Barry said, and laughed exultantly.

At the sound of impatient movements above, Linda broke away and ran guiltily up the stairs. Looking down from the turn at the landing, she saw that he was still laughing up at her, his hands clasped above his head in an absurd gesture of self-congratulation, that wicked glint in his eyes that always made his grandmother say, "Now he's up to some meanness."

And I thought he was in earnest, Linda thought, as she fled.

A little later that afternoon Linda thought she had the answer to the question she had asked herself earlier in the day. Old Miranda, answering the telephone at her elbow in the drawing room called to Linda as she passed in the hall outside. "Oh, Miss Benton, please tell my grandson that Mrs. Blanchard wishes to speak to him . . . Oh, and, Miss Benton, the Christmas wreaths have been delivered. Won't you see that they are properly placed?"

Linda, hanging Christmas wreaths in the front parlor, tried not to listen to Barry's brief telephone conversation in the hall. But she could not help hearing him say cheerfully, "Sure! Be right up. Why, yes, Rita. I might be able to manage that—for old times' sake —and you'll promise not to invite the whole county."

Old Miranda evidently heard, too, for when her grandson came into the room, she studied his blandly innocent face with shrewd speculation before she said, "Nora since when, Barrymore Trent, have you taken the veil and forsworn society?"

Linda hurried upstairs. She did not want to talk to Barry just then.

She did not have a later opportunity, for a few minutes afterward he dashed out of the house and drove away. He did not return for dinner, nor for the evening in the drawing room. He did not make any questions about him; and old Miranda did not volunteer any information.

Linda listed herself for the thoughtful task of, some, turning her alternately cold and hot with shame and misery; had Barry gone to Rita Blanchard—for almost directly from those moments with Barry in the stairway? Had all that been really just some self-pleasing nonsense? . . . After all, just what had he said that afternoon? Not "will you marry me?" but "would you marry me—if—?" Did old Miranda guess, too, that he had gone to Mrs. Blanchard? The old Miranda was strangely silent that evening.

They did not play their usual game. Once in the early evening Linda, reading at the clock which it seemed to Linda must have been furtively watching ever since dinner, had asked Linda to turn on the radio. She sat there, pretending to a brief news broadcast, and with a silent movement of her head, ordered it off again.

"It seems strange that there isn't any trace of that plane Captain Trent was flying in," she said. "Surely by the best of them, there would have come one last time. No wonder they've given up hope. Shall we go on with our reading, my dear, or to bed?"

So Linda read on and on. But this evening Miranda Trent did not knit, nor did she drowse—nor did she seem to listen. She sat very straight as usual, her eyes on some point in the distance. If they would penetrate space, and find out something beyond the ken of ordinary vision.

It was almost midnight when Barry came in. At sight of his tense, white face, Miranda got slowly to her feet, her hands trembling a little on the head of her cane.

"Well?" she asked simply. "Well?" and stood waiting.

Then, when Barry nodded, she said, "I see," and sat down a little heavily on the chair behind her, her eyes never leaving her grandson's face.

How Cold Oil Acts

W. A. S. Wright, Union Oil Company research engineer, demonstrating the machine he devised to show how various oils act in a crankcase at colder temperatures. Four U-shaped tubes containing four different oils are lowered into a bath of kerosene which may be chilled with dry ice to as low as 50 degrees below zero for the test. With the hand pump a vacuum is then applied to the tubes. The pumpability and viscous character of the different oils then can be noted.

Oil That Thickens With Cold Weather Damaging to Motor

Trying to lubricate your motor in winter with an oil that won't flow readily or is too viscous at colder temperatures is like trying to spray asphalt through an atomizer, according to W. Lloyd, lubricating engineer, Union Oil Company of Canada, Ltd.

"Loss of power, oil dilution with consequent excessive consumption, and in the end costly repairs due to scored cylinders are sure to result from use of an improper grade of oil in cold weather starting," Mr. Lloyd stated. "That's because the oil pump and splash-spray system of your motor can't get oil to cylinder walls fast enough to prevent metal-to-metal contact between piston rings and cylinder walls while the starter is turning the motor over at a rate of 200 to 400 r.p.m.

HARD ON BATTERY

"Oils that won't pour readily, or thicken excessively at low temperatures also impose a heavy drain on your battery and make it difficult for the starter to spin the motor as it should. Tests have shown that the right type of oil can save as much as 66 per cent of the power required for starting on cold mornings. To visualize the load imposed on the starter and battery by too viscous an oil, just imagine trying to move a piston with the close clearance between it and the cylinder wall filled with tar or asphalt.

"If the oil's pour-point is so high that it won't flow at all at colder temperatures," continued Mr. Lloyd, "then cylinder walls are starved of oil, washed bare by excess raw gasoline drawn in when the motor is choked, and the piston rings gouge and score cylinder walls in bare metal-to-metal contact."

FLOWS READILY

To avoid any possibility of motor damage in cold weather from these causes, Union Oil Company has produced the pour point of Triton 10-W motor oil 30 degrees, so that it now flows readily at proper viscosity at 35 degrees below zero, it was announced.

This was demonstrated on a special testing machine devised by W. A. S. Wright, of Union's research staff, which shows the pumpability of various oils in a crankcase under identical conditions at any given temperature. At 35 degrees below zero two other oils tested would not flow at all and while the fourth did flowed it was so viscous that its sluggish, sticky thickness indicated it would not splash, spray and spread to bearing surfaces quickly enough to prevent damage.

Vancouver Hard Hit By Storms Now Recovering

VANCOUVER, Dec. 29.—British Columbia's southern coast district and Vancouver Island today emerged from the grip of a three-day storm which caused the death of one trainman and injury to another.

But as rains carried off a foot or more of snow near the coast, and motorists drove on clear streets for the first time since last week, transportation and wire communication facilities connecting British Columbia with eastern Canada were still disrupted.

All trains out of Vancouver for the east were cancelled yesterday as Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. The first train into Vancouver since Monday was due by C.P.R. at 1.30 p.m. P.S.T. today. The C.N.R. chief dispatcher said arrival of his first train from the east was "very, very indefinite."

Wharf Facilities For New Mining District Favored

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—The ministry of mines has received favorable consideration to a recommendation from the B. C. department of mines that wharfage facilities at Zeballos, the rich gold mining area on Vancouver Island. As part of the co-operative government-mining policy, assistance has been given for the building of seven or eight miles of road into the Zeballos area and wharfage facilities on the coast are badly needed.

TURNER CRUDE FREIGHT RATE GOOD ON CARS

Small Refineries Enabled to Utilize Alberta Oil Field Product

REGINA, Dec. 9.—Low freight rates on Turner Valley crude oil being shipped from Alberta to Regina or Moose Jaw will apply on single carlot shipments as well as trainload shipments, the Board of Railway Commissioners ruled in a decision released Tuesday.

The decision places independent and small refineries in a position to utilize the Turner Valley crude oil, commented G. H. Barr, K.C., counsel for a Regina refinery, which filed a protest against the original rates, claiming small companies were unable to take advantage of the low rate on trainload shipments.

COMPLAINT HEARD

The complaint of the Regina Co-operative group against the tariff ruling limiting the rate only to trainload shipments was heard at a sitting of the Board of Railway Commissioners held in Regina November 16 and 17.

Railway companies said the low rate was granted to meet the competition of a possible pipe line from Turner Valley to Regina.

J. A. Stoneman, commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioners, delivered the judgment of the board.

There was an appeal also for a change in the rate on absorption gasoline, often known as casing gasoline, and Mr. Stoneman ruled:

"No evidence was furnished proving that the characteristics and value of gasoline, absorption gasoline partly refined, and absorption gasoline completely refined, differ to such an extent that a rate of 20 cents on one of these commodities and a rate of 68 cents on the others does not constitute a rate difference that is unjustly discriminatory. We consider that the present rates at present published on absorption gasoline for the points Calgary to Moose Jaw and Regina should be cancelled."

There was also a second request, by smaller companies, that rates be established to all refining points in Saskatchewan and Alberta in carloads on the basis of the same rate per 100 pounds per 100 miles as the rates of 18½ cents to Moose Jaw and 19 to Regina.

HELD REASONABLE

The judgment held that new rates published December 9 by railways on crude petroleum oil in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba on the basis of 40 per cent of the fifth class rate "provide a reasonable disposition of this question of rates on crude petroleum oil from Calgary to points other than Moose Jaw and Regina."

The rate of 19 cents per 100 pounds established for Regina amounts to 1.52 cents per imperial gallon.

Hong Kong Tensely Watches Japan

In the south of war-torn China, thus far untouched by the Sino-Japanese hostilities, lies the British crown colony, the city of Hong Kong, an island acquired by Britain in 1841. Looking down from the peak we see the busy city with its docks and business houses. Away to the left on the mainland is Kowloon. The attitude of the city is one of watchful waiting. It is felt that any attack on the city would have international and, perhaps, world-wide repercussions.

Time Moves On Towards Wings Across Canada

Review of 1937 National Aviation Shows Advance in Set-Up For Air Traffic on Sea and Land

By GUY E. RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 29.—Canada's civil aviation enjoyed its biggest year in 1937 as preparations neared completion to start operations on part of the Trans-Canada Airline and activity on the nation's frontiers brought unprecedented traffic to air freighters and mail carriers.

Parliament passed a bill last spring incorporating the Trans-Canada airline. S. J. Hungerford, chairman of the Canadian National Railways, became chairman of the airline's board of directors. The line bought five eight-passenger, twin-engined monoplanes capable of 200-mile-an-hour top speed, ordered seven more for delivery in 1938 to seat 14 passengers each.

At a school in Winnipeg the airline trained 12 of the country's best pilots to fly the fast planes under all conditions, day and night, through fair and foul weather; taught them to ride radio beams that guide machines between ports on the airways. It expected to open a service between Winnipeg and Vancouver early in the new year.

LAUNCH NEW SERVICE

The Post Office Department launched new services, expanded others, reduced the air parcel post rates on frontier services from 15 to 12 cents a pound, raised the parcel weight limit from 15 to 25 pounds, expecting an enormous increase in tonnage as a consequence.

Figures were not available but postal officials said they expected them to exceed last year's record showing by a wide margin. They pointed to a new fortnightly service between Edmonton and Whitehorse, Y.T., its extension to Dawson, Y.T., a new trail-plane service from Pouce Coupe, B.C., steelhead of the Northern Alberta Railway's Grande Prairie line, to Dawson Creek.

EXTEND SERVICES

The Post Office Department opened a new service from Edmonton into Goldfields and Fond du Lac mining areas of northern Saskatchewan and to Yellowknife on Great Slave Lake in the North West Territories. It extended services in northern Manitoba and started a new one from Fort St. James, B.C., to Takla Lake.

Planes flew daily except Sundays from Rimouski, Que., to Comeau Bay, carrying mail to that important new pulp-and-paper town on the St. Lawrence north shore. The department extended its north shore service to Harrington Harbor and added many ports of call.

In the north and northwest commercial operators believed their freighting would set a record considerably above that of last year. In the northwest's Mackenzie and Great Lakes districts a dozen mines taxed resources of air transport companies.

PERHAPS NEXT YEAR

Eastward aviation observers looked to England and Ireland, expecting a service to start perhaps next year between Montreal and Southampton; westward visionaries looked across the roof of the world to Russia through Alaska and the Aleutian Islands to northern Asia. A summer conference between Canadian and American authorities was held at Edmonton to explore possibilities of a service to Shanghai.

While Imperial and Pan-American pilots shuttle giant flying boats across the Atlantic, famous Sigismund Levanevfsky and four companions vanished between Moscow and North America. An international search party hunted along Canada's western Arctic coast, made long flights over the ice-strewn sea, found nothing.

SEARCH THE ARCTIC

Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted Australian explorer who once flew from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen, launched a new winter search, departing on the bright moon that lights the new twilight. He took Winnipeg's Herbert Hollick-Kenyon and Al Cheeseman, men who flew with him in the Antarctic, went to Aklavik, the Canadian Arctic's biggest town, and prepared to operate between there and Barrow, making wide sweeps seaward in the direction of the pole.

Loss of Levanefskiy was rendered a greater shock by the fact his countryman, Valeri Chekaloff, and two companions flew a month before from Moscow via Canada to Vancouver, Wash., non-stop. Chekaloff's plane was single-engined, Levanefskiy's four-engined.

A good influence on the public attitude to flying was seen in the governor-general's airplane journey last summer from the western Arctic coast to Edmonton, his trips into the northwestern mining country and several flights in British Columbia through high mountains. Lord Tweedsmuir flew about 4,000 miles.

Aviators said they expected it would raise public confidence in aircraft safety.

DON MARQUIS, NOTED AUTHOR, HUMORIST, DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Don Marquis, playwright, poet and newspaperman who went through life with laughter on his lips and devilitry on his typewriting fingertips, died today.

With the passing of the internationally-known humorist after several years illness, such of his beloved characters as "The Old Soak," "archy the cockroach," and "Mehitabel," a dirreputable cat whose every meow was a grain of philosophy, died, too, in a sense. However, the words Marquis put in their mouths to make life a little brighter for those who read them, will live on.

Marquis who was 58, had been in serious condition since suffering a pyralytic stroke some months ago. He had been cared for by his two sisters at his suburban home in Forest Hills, Long Island, and a male nurse.

Friends from literary and theatrical circles were organizing a benefit to aid him when death sprawled "30"—the newspaperman's symbol for "the end."

Queensland Beaten

ADELAIDE, Dec. 29.—South Australia defeated Queensland by eight wickets in a Sheffield Shield cricket match concluded today. The contest between Victoria and New South Wales ended in a draw.

PARIS PUBLIC SERVICE MEN GO ON STRIKE

General Shutdown Ties Up Transportation For 5,000,000

PARIS, Dec. 29.—An estimated 120,000 strikers paralyzed the French capital's transportation system today and threatened to cut off supplies of water, gas and electricity.

PARIS, Dec. 29—A general strike of Paris public service workers was launched at 5.30 a. m. (10.30 p.m. M.S.T., Tuesday) today, when subway employees suspended operations on all 13 of the French capital's lines.

The transportation paralysis quickly spread to buses. A municipal bus line official announced all bus service was "indefinitely suspended."

Vehicles were withdrawn from the majority of a dozen night bus lines before the day service was scheduled to begin. Three buses left terminals "by error," officials said, but halted their runs after the drivers were informed of the strike call.

The strike was to embrace bus, subway, water, gas, electric plant and hospital workers, in addition to those of the food and trucking industries already on strike.

The Associated Press reported the strike raised a serious threat to Premier Camille Chautemps' popular front government. It threatened to increase the ranks of Chautemps' parliamentary opponents who already have censured him for failing to settle smaller shutdowns, the Associated Press said.

NO TRANSPORT

The strike would leave the 5,000,000 inhabitants of greater Paris with no transport facilities save taxis and suburban railways, and would paralyze commerce, industry and social activity at the height of the holiday season.

Merchants Stop Buying Japan Goods

DETROIT, Dec. 29.—R. R. Williams, vice-president of the S. S. Kresge Company in charge of merchandising, said today his company was not placing orders for Japanese-made goods, nor sending money to Japan at this time.

"Our policy," he explained, "is to buy only merchandise that is acceptable to the public."

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The F. W. Woolworth chain of five and 10 cent stores has ceased, for the present at least, adding to its stock of Japanese-made goods, T. J. Mullin, assistant to the president, said Tuesday.
